How the Bloody Chasm is Being Closed.

Check to the Braggers.

A gentleman of this City authorizes us to announce that he will bet ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS on GRANT and WILSON, on every State in the Union. Not less than $10,000 to be deposited by each party, in any approved Trust Company, to abide the result.

Doolittle's Case.

The Tribune says it does not defend Mr. Doolittle. Senator Fenton must look after his Professor of Journalism and give him a few more lessons, now that one thing has been found too dirty for him to defend in the interest of "Old Honesty." The Professor says that "Mr. Doolittle is not a candidate for any office so far as we know, and his character is not a matter at present at issue." Less than a year ago the Tribune said Mr. Doolittle had become a professional office-seeker. But let that pass. The organ's doctrine is that a man who stands convicted by his own letters of corruption and falsehood, of forcing a present from a subordinate and of lying about it, may go about the country in the interest of Mr. Greeley denouncing presenttaking and corruption, and yet "his character is not a matter at present at issue." This will be encouraging to Kilpatrick and Lindsay and Stevens and the whole tribe of tainted orators. Indeed it will serve Tweed admirably when he hurries out a few sentences in favor of Greeley, "True, I'm a thief, a rascal, I'm all that is bad, but my character is not a matter at present at issue, and my friend Greeley is honest."

The Bloody Chasm.

Col. M. A. Bryson, of St. Louis, made, in that city, on Thursday night last, a candid reply to Senator Schurz's speech of July 22. In alluding to the cry that the North must be "reconciled" to the South, he said: "But Senator Schurz says we won't shake hands across the bloody chasm. Well, we have been offering to do it for seven years. I ask him if any citizen of the South has been maltreated in the North? What Southern man has been treated otherwise than as a gentleman in the North? I remember, in 1867, being on the floor of the Merchants' Exchange in Cincinnati. I met Kirby Smith there. You remember he attempted to take Cincinnati, and many citizens sold their property for little or nothing, and left. I said, 'General, I am astonished to see you here, I should think you would feel a little strange among these merchants.' 'Well,' said he, 'I have been a little astonished myself. I never was treated better in my life.' That is the way we have been shaking hands across the bloody chasm. I have seen Gen. Beauregard treated and feasted here. I have yet to see the first Northern man that has tried to wound the feelings of any man or woman of the South. Can you say as much of the South? [Cries of No, no!] When Senator McCreery, of Kentucky, introduced a eulogy on Gen. Lee upon the floor of the United States Senate was there a Northern Senator that rose to throw calumny upon his memory? Not one! I say that is right. I have treated these men as my friends, but I don't like to be asked to go too far —to give and not receive. Don't ask us, as Senator Schurz has, to bury the men who fought through the war in the Union and trample their memories in the dust. I respect the memory of every man in the South who fought from a conviction of duty. But I do ask that they be satisfied with a less sacrifice than the dishonoring of our living heroes and fallen dead."

In Favor of the Amendments but Opposed to their Enforcement.

Many years ago when Ben. Shillaber, Mrs. Partington, Ike, and all that crowd were literally a unit in advocating in the Boston Carpet Bag the election of Gen. Jehiel Stebbins to the Presidency, and were carrying on the campaign with nearly as much vehemence as the Tribune and its crowd are now urging its candidate for the same position, the Prohibitory Liquor law excitement was at its height, and in order that the position of Jehiel Stebbins in that question might be clearly understood, it was authoritatively announced that the General was "in favor of the Maine law but opposed to its enforcement." Quite as satisfactory announcement is made by the Augusta (Ga.) Constitutionalist in respect to the later candidate for the Presidency, when it says: "It is not to be ignored that Mr. Greeley as fully recognizes the validity of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments, as does Grant and his Radical supporters. But it is equally true that he is opposed to any further oppression and unconstitutional measures upon the South under the pretext of carrying out those amendments. The candidates for Congress on the Greeley tickets throughout the country are equally opposed and fully committed against that tyrannical line of policy."

Bowie-Knife Potter.

Hon. John F. Potter, of Wisconsin, whom every Republican in the land and every fire-eater in the South knows personally or by letter, has written a letter in response to an invitation to address the Waukesha Republican Club, in which, while declining the invitation on account of the serious illness of his mother, he assures the Club of his earnest sympathy in the cause for the furtherance of which it has been organized. Alluding to this the Milwaukee Wisconsin says: "If there is an original, consistent and honest Republican in the State that one is John F. Potter, and his adherence to the party speaks most forcibly and conclusively in refutation of the calumnies of the 'Return Party.' His testimony in behalf of the Republican Party and its Administration will outweigh that of a hundred of such weather-cocks and scoreheads as John Farnsworth."

Enthusiasm of the Lucas County, Ohio, Republicans.

That was a glorious Republican ratification meeting in Toledo, Ohio, last Friday. The Toledo Blade says: "The campaign in Lucas County opened splendidly. For many years out-door meetings in the daytime in this city have not been largely attended, and fears were entertained by many that, notwithstanding the attraction of Gov. Noyes' presence, the attendance would be too limited to be an occasion of inspiration and encouragement. But those who feared for the result had not come to a knowledge of the deep and general interest felt in the issues of the campaign. Since 1860 no party has felt throughout every part of its membership such genuine and hearty enthusiasm as now pervades the Republican hosts. At the appointed hour yesterday afternoon the people came from the country in long processions of carriages and wagons; mechanics and manufacturers closed their shops and thronged their way to the place of meeting: merchants, for an hour or two, on a day when the city was thronged with customers, left their business with a minimum of force to run it, in order to partake of the feast. When the meeting was called to order the largest audience of a political character ever gathered in this county was arrayed before the speaker's stand. Gen. Wager Swayne was called upon to preside, and introduced Gen. Noyes with earnest and heart-moving words. To witness the emotion with which Gen. Swayne, a brave, crippled veteran of the war, introduced another crippled soldier, with whom he had been associated in the conflict with the rebels, was itself an inspiration and incentive to duty." The meetings were continued through the afternoon and evening, and were addressed by Gov. Noyes, Rev. R. W. Arnett, J. Madison Bell, Gen. Sherwood, and others, and a Central Grant and Wilson Club was organized. The Blade says: "Thus closed the first field day in Toledo. Its fruits are an earnest of glorious victory in October and November."

Another Influential Maine Democrat for Grant.

Joel Colby, one of the most honored and influential Democrats in Somerset County, Maine, has declared against Greeley in a letter in which he says: "I am afraid to invest in that stock, because it takes in all that rebel element which sought the very life of the Government, and which was put down at the sacrifice of so many valuable lives and so much treasure. I cannot see why the country, today, financially, is not in a fair and prosperous condition. The national debt is being reduced, business is good, the laboring man was never better paid for his labor than at the present time, and all the necessaries of life are now at very fair prices. I cannot see any good in a change of administration at this time, but fear much evil. I prefer that the party in now power should continue so another four years at least. Many of my Democratic brethren here are feeling as I do, and I am very much mistaken if they do not with me vote for the conquerer of the rebellion, this Fall."

The Colored Citizens of Minnesota.

The St. Paul Press publishes a circular, signed by a large number of colored citizens of Minnesota, declining to follow the advice volunteered to them by Charles Sumner, and pledging their support to Grant and Wilson. The Press says: "The list embraces, almost without exception, the name of every colored voter whose signature was solicited, and it is a significant indication of the spirit which animates our colored fellow-citizens everywhere. They know that the Republican Party gave them their freedom and their rights of citizenship, in spite of the utmost efforts of the organization styling itself Democratic, and they do not now propose to put themselves into the power of their life-long enemies. They will trust their tried friends to maintain what has already been accomplished, and they will not participate in Mr. Sumner's personal quarrels."

Disciplining the Democracy.

Denying the World's dictum that "a genuine representative Democratic National Convention has authority to bind its constituents, that is to say, to bind the whole Democratic Party," the Chicago Times, the leading Democratic organ of the West, if not of the Union, says: "A genuine representative Democratic National Convention has no authority whatever to bind anybody. If any Democrat is dissatisfied with the action of such a convention, he has a perfect right to express his dissatisfaction in any lawful way. And if a convention has for its constituents only the professional politicians and spoils-seekers, and if it proposes the opposite of Democratic principles for the acceptance of Democrats, and if it asks Democrats to vote for the most violently anti-democratic of all Anti-Democrats, then the action of such a convention, so far from being binding upon Democrats, may very properly be repudiated by Democrats, and the Convention itself may properly be regarded as the enemy of Democracy, and treated accordingly. No one need be surprised, and no one has the least right to complain, if Democrats 'proclaim their revolt against Democratic discipline,' when that discipline is exercised to dragoon them into the support of Anti-Democratic principles' and the bitterest and most dangerous enemies of those principles. It is not unnatural that Democrats should proclaim their hostility to a 'party' which proclaims its own hostility to Democratic principles by choosing for its standard-bearer the most inveterate and implacable enemy of those principles. It is not strange that Democrats should revolt against such discipline, and proclaim their hostility to such a party."

The Union League of America for Grant and Wilson.

A private meeting of the National Executive Committee of the Union League of America was held yesterday afternoon, Gov. John W. Geary, of Pennsylvania, in the chair. Reports of an encouraging character were received from the various States. Among the resolutions passed were the following:

Whereas, The National Council at its last meeting pledged the Union League of America to the support of the nominees of the National Convention of the Union Republican Party; therefore, for the purpose of carrying out the instructions of the National Council—

Resolved, That the National Executive Committee calls upon all members of the Union League of America throughout the United States to rally around the standard of Grant and Wilson, and use all their energies for the triumph of the Republican Party during the present national campaign.

Resolved, That the above resolution be transmitted to the various State Councils, with instructions to have the same promulgated throughout their respective jurisdictions, and requiring that adherence to the principles and candidates of the Republican Party shall be an essential condition of admission to the higher degree of the Union League.

Vacancies in the officers and members of the Committee were filled as follows: First Vice-President—Gov. Marshall Jewell, of Connecticut; Second Vice-President—Judge A. A. Knight, of Florida. Members of the Resident Committee—Hon. Geo. A. Halsey, of New-Jersey; Hon. A. B. Cornell, of New-York; Hon. Silas B. Dutcher, of New-York.

The resignation of F. Carlisle, of Michigan, was received, and Gov. Baldwin, of that State, was appointed to fill the vacancy.

The following was passed in regard to North Carolina:

Resolved, That the thanks of the National Executive Committee are hereby tendered to our brethren in North Carolina, who, undeterred by the laws of their State forbidding them to hold regular meetings, were still found faithful in the hour of trial, thereby sending a thrill of joy through the ranks of the Union League throughout the United States.

After the transaction of a large amount of campaign business, the Committee adjourned, subject to the call of the Chair.

A Fraud.

The annexed circular is, we learn, being distributed largely in the West. It is of course a barefaced fraud. There is no such Club, and its officers are bogus. Our Western exchanges should call attention to it:

ROOMS OF THE NATIONAL GRANT CLUB, }

Mr. H. A. Smith:

DEAR SIR: You will please remit to this office, without delay, the sum of three dollars.

They will devote their whole energies during the present campaign to bring about the re-election of Gen. Grant to the Presidency. You are aware, of course, that immense sums of money are required to conduct a Presidential campaign. Political speakers are to be paid; thousands of banners to be raised in all parts of the Republic; special trains are to be paid for; thousands of dollars are to be paid for advertising in many journals. Other items could be enumerated which are inseparable from expense in all political campaigns.

Money collected by this Association will be disbursed in the Western States and in Pennsylvania.

Enthusiastic German Republican Rally.

The German Republicans of the Twelfth Assembly District met last evening at Dry-dock Hall, No. 291 East Fourth-street, to raise a Grant and Wilson banner. The houses in the vicinity were brilliantly illuminated for about two or three blocks with Chinese lanterns during the ceremony of the banner-raising. The meeting inside was organized by the President, Mr. Louis Schraidt, and the music corps of the Eleventh Regiment was in attendance. Stirring addresses were delivered by Messrs. Wm. Gallmann, the President of the German Republican Central Committee, and several others addressed the meeting.

The Greeley Ratification—Mourning and woe Among the Clans.

The Piebald party are going to have a grand splurge on the 12th of next month, and it might be supposed that the occasion would be one of unmixed rejoicing among the warriors of Tammany. But, on the contrary, it is a source of the bitterest wailing. All the petty chieftains of the miserable gangs who in past times have done the bidding of the party by wrecking polling-booths, assaulting voters, repeating, stealing polling-books and disgracing American institutions generally, are in grief. It takes them all their spare cash to keep their hordes together, and they have hitherto looked to meetings like the contemplated September splurge as sources of revenue. But fortunately for society the perennial streams or greenbacks that kept them flourishing have been cut off by Controller Green, and the Reformers, and those unhappy chiefs who asked for money from the Chairman of the Committee of Arrangements, have been offered such unsubstantial and insulting joys as Roman candles, green fire and rockets. It is very doubtful if the Pretorian guard will turn out at the appointed time unless a judicious distribution is made of part of that $250,000 which Marshall O. Roberts is ready to contribute to the Greeley cause. The Matthew T. Brennan Association has, according to report, sent delegates to the Committee to learn definitely how much the party of purity and reform will stand. Many anxious ones are waiting for the answer.

The Herald and Greeley.

The New-York Staats Zeitung says: "The Herald has abandoned Greeley. The Herald is a good weathercock. Only those who are blind can fail to see that Greeley's chances are rapidly waning. The 'sober second thought' has opened the way to a return to reason."

Straws from Travelers.

A correspondent of the Fort Dodge (Iowa) Messenger communicates the following: "As the Republicans of glorious young Iowa are deeply interested in the results of the Presidential election, I give for their encouragement a few items gathered in my travels in Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois and Iowa during the last few weeks. Last Monday I left Milwaukee on the noon train for Chicago. On the way we took a vote of passengers for President. It stood 70 for Grant and 31 for Greeley. On Tuesday, coming through Illinois on the North-western, the vote stood 25 for Grant and 8 for Greeley. Coming over the B. C. and M. Railroad from Cedar Rapids to Cedar Falls, the vote stood 9 for Grant and 6 for Greeley. I met a friend at Cedar Falls who had come through from New-Hampshire, and he informed me that votes taken on all the trains as he came through, stood about one-third more for Grant than for Greeley. I saw another gentleman who had been traveling in Indiana and Ohio and had taken pains to canvass all trains on which he had traveled. He stated that only in one instance had the vote cast for Greeley come nearly equal to the Grant vote. In all other instances the vote was about one-third more for Grant than Greeley."

Long Island Politics.

A meeting of the Republican electors of Whitestone, Long Island, was held at Bullus' Hotel, on Friday last, Mr. Robert Willets in the chair. The business of organization was at once entered upon, and addresses were made by the Chairman, Messrs. D. A. Higgins, A. H. Kissam and others. It was

Resolved, That a club be formed, to be known as "The Grant and Wilson Club of Whitestone."

A committee submitted to the meeting the following names: For President, Robert Willets; Vice-Presidents, A. Wright, B. J. Hathaway, George W. Stolen, C. W. Smith, John Barrow, S. S. Pilzer, J. J. Bullus, A. H. Kissam, H. Weidman, William Higgins, and John Roe; Secretary, Henry Smith; Treasurer, John J. Locke. Carried by acclamation. Thirty-seven good men and true were enrolled.

At Coleman & Walker's sadd lery-hardware foundery, at Elizabethport, eighty persons are employed, twenty-nine of whom are voters. On the 23d a vote was taken, with the following result: twenty-two Grant, three Greeley, two Democrats who will not vote for Greeley, one Republican who will not vote at all, one Republican no choice. THE PINE-TREE STATE.

Speech of Senator Trumbull at Portland.

The Last Resort of the Liberals a Failure—The State Stronger Than Ever for Grant —Republican Meetings at Other Points.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 26.—Senator Lyman Trumbull made his third speech in Maine to-night at the City Hall in this place. The hall was well filled; two or three hundred had to stand, while the galleries contained a large number of ladies—a somewhat unusual thing at Democratic gatherings, out of New-England at any rate. So there were about 2,500 people present. Mr. Trumbull was escorted to the hall and presented to the audience by an appropriate embroidering of apostate Republicans, the filling up being composed of the Greeley Democracy. The meeting was a good one for that side, even though many of the Republicans of Portland, who wanted to hear the malignant utterances of Mr. Trumbull, helped to fill the benches. The speech made by Mr. Trumbull is the same one he has delivered in the West. After paying a handsome tribute to New-England, he launched at once into the framework of his assault. His first assertion was to deny that the Republican Party or Gen. Grant had anything to do with putting down the rebellion. He said it was the American people who put it down, and the inference was clearly drawn that Gen. Grant had no more share in it and deserved no more credit for it than any one of the American people. His next point, without waiting to dwell on a subject which brought up unpleasant memories in his audience, was the finances. These he boldly denounced as scandalous and disgraceful, and alleged that they were nevertheless the boast of the ring that "runs the Administration," as he elegantly expressed it. Giving the book-keeping of the Treasury a severe criticism, he declared his charges proved, and said the Administration deserved to be hurled from power for such book-keeping. Then he took up the Syndicate business, and as a specimen of his misrepresentations, of which he would be thoroughly ashamed if his present associations did not prevent, he deliberately concealed from his audience the fact that the Funding act required that ninety days' notice should be given of the redemption of the five-twenties, and that they couldn't be redeemed until the new bonds were sold. His ingenuity in this matter was paralleled only by his mendacity. His next point of attack was the Secor claims, which he has rehearsed on every occasion, and ridiculed the report of the House Committee, saying nothing, however, about the fact that the majority of the Greeleyites on the Committee vindicated the Secretary. His next allegation was that he believed, and he said it with great vehemence, seeking to create the impression of a fact, that he believed the public money in the Treasury was being used to carry the elections. He reiterated this shortly afterward by saying, that while he did not absolutely charge it, he said the money might be, and he believed it actually was being used to carry elections. Then he instanced a bank out West which had just been designated a national depository, whose President was a Presidential elector for Grant and Wilson. He broadly insinuated, what he dared not say, that half a million dollars had been placed on deposit in that bank, with an intimation that it would not be wanted for a few months, and might be loaned at good interest.

His audience—or at least the Greeley portion of it—greedily accepted the insinuation as an established fact. His next indictment was the usurpations of power on the part of the Administration. He dwelt with gusto upon what he termed the "Senatorial Ring," and took up the Election laws, which he discussed at length. He instanced no fact or case of abuse, but dealt upon the possibilities of their abuse. Here is a rich specimen of his false and malignant utterances. He charged that under the law of 1870 Deputy Marshals could and would be placed at five dollars per day throughout the South to control the elections, in the face of the fact, which Mr. Trumbull knows as well as he knows, his own name, that this law he does not apply to more than five or six cities in the entire Southern States, namely those having more than 20,000 inhabitants. After recapitulating the efforts of the ring, as he styled the Senate, to sustain themselves in power, he invited his audience to help him hurl the present despots from power, to which invitation to the fleshpots a large portion of his hearers responded with vehement applause.

Having finished his excoriation, he proceeded to vindicate his apostacy, and that of his fellow-Greeleyites. He reiterated his claim to credit for all the Republican Party had ever achieved, but it was a significant face that when he alluded to the grand achievement of the civil and political equality of all men, there was no applause. It fell dead. He played humorously on the political embarrassments which prevent Republicans voting for Democrats, and yet did not prevent Democrats from voting with Republicans. He touched with grim humor upon Mr. Greeley's early position on secession, and on the payment for slaves; and argued that whatever he held then he did not so hold now. Then he shot off into civil service reform, and reiterated the old falsehood that the civil service report says that one hundred millions are lost to the revenue annually, through the corruptness of the service, which he declared the worst the country ever saw. All this would be reformed, he said, by the election of Mr. Greeley. He made no allusion to his own five-score recommendations which makes the civil service so much in need of reform.

Mr. Trumbull spoke nearly two hours, and in conclusion, he expressed the opinion that Mr. Greeley would be elected, and that there were enough Liberals in Maine voting with the Democrats, to carry the State for him. His peroration was composed of Creswell, Chorpenning Boutwell, Syndicate Grant, &c., in equal parts. At the close three cheers were called for, when half the audience rose, and the rest kept their seats, indicating the extent to which the audience failed to sympathize with the speaker. There was a marked absence of enthusiasm, caused partly by the coldness of manner of Mr. Trumbull, but chiefly by the fact, now clear as noonday, that the spirit of the Greeleyite campaign is broken in this State. This was intended to be the great meeting in this part of the State; it was, on the contrary, only a fair evening meeting for Portland.

No harm will come from Mr. Trumbull's efforts in this State; he is sharply flanked by the Republican Campaign management. He spoke at Biddeford on Friday night, and Gen. John M. Harlan, of Kentucky provided a powerful antidote for his poison there to-night. His speech here will be followed by the great Republican meeting of to-morrow, while his speech at Augusta, on Tuesday, will be followed by the Republican demonstration there on Friday. Wednesday he speaks at Bangor, to be preceded Tuesday by Bingham, and followed on Thursday by Wilson and Butler. The Republican meeting here to-morrow will be both a soldiers' and citizens' demonstration. Reduced fare arrangements have been made with all the railroads, and large delegations are announced from Bangor, Augusta, Lewiston, Biddeford, Saco, Rochester, &c.

The day demonstration includes a meeting at the City Hall in the afternoon, at which Gen. Harlan, Gen. Butler, Gen. Burnside and Gen. Caldwell will speak. The evening demonstration will include a parade of 2,000 torches and another meeting at City Hall, at which Senator Wilson and Fred. Douglass will speak. The campaign grows warmer with each day, and it is certain that the Republicans are steadily gaining ground.

The Campaign in Cumberland County —Increased Prospects of Success.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

GORHAM, Me., Aug. 26.—This part of Cumberland County has been thoroughly aroused, and for the past few days the Republican enthusiasm has increased rapidly. Saturday last we had a handsome meeting, which was addressed by Col. J. H. Warwick, of New-York, and to-night nearly a thousand persons assembled to hear Fred. Douglass' wonderful eloquence and keen logic. His effort was one of his very best, and was received with great favor. Gorham will gain handsomely on last year's vote.

Large Political Meeting in the Penobscot Valley—Addresses by Hon. J. A. Bingham and Others.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

ORONO, Me., Aug. 26.—The Penobscot Valley was ablaze with enthusiasm to-night, occasioned by the largest political turnout ever held in this part of the country since 1868. The attractions of the evening were one of Hon. John A. Bingham's eloquent and logical speeches, and a telling effort from John A. Peters, our present member of Congress. Judge Bingham is doing a world of good in causing the scales to drop from the eyes of men who have been unwittingly drawn into the ranks of Greeleyism, and we rejoice that we are to have him in old Penobscot all this week. Rest assured the account she will give two weeks hence will be satisfactory, especially on our copperhead adversary for Congress, Emery, whom we shall bury deeper than ever.

VERMONT.

The Republican Canvass in Active Operation—Position of the State in Respect to the Election.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

SPRINGFIELD, Vt., Aug. 26.—The last week of the active canvassing has begun, and up to Saturday night an immense amount of political work throughout the State will be done. There are to be several large meetings in the interest of the Republican ticket and the Administration. On Wednesday there will be a grand rally at this place for Orleans and the contiguous counties. There will also be one of the greatest demonstrations of the campaign the same day at St. Albans. On Thursday, Bradford, in Orange County, will have quite an important demonstration. On Friday Bellows Falls will receive the Republican delegates from the surrounding towns. On Saturday there will be the last, and it is intended to be the greatest of the political gatherings in the State. Meantime there are many meetings of lesser importance, mostly local in character, in nearly all the counties. There is a brightening prospect as the day of election approaches, that the Republican majority of two years ago will be increased, and a general belief prevails that it will still be bad weather, or something else unexpected may happen, to prevent the full vote of the State from being polled, and in that case there will be a slight reduction in the Democratic majority. The Greeley vote will draw away, according to the best information, about 150 votes, which is about eight or nine to every hundred Republicans voting in the last election. This is a liberal allowance. There are nearly the same number of Democrats who will not vote for Greeley, but who will probably vote the Union State ticket. From all parts of the State come reports of a decrease in the number of those who were supposed some time ago to have gone over to the Liberal standard, and the withdrawal of Republican votes may be much less than has been allowed. The most sanguine of the Liberals claim 3,000 to 5,000 Republican votes. Few Republicans concede more than 1,500 to 2,000. To offset this, there are 20,000 Grant Republicans who did not vote at all in the last election, who are counted upon to make up any loss. Unfortunately there are not Democrats enough in the State to make any particular efforts to gain recruits from that quarter profitable. Some, however, will come of themselves. The result is certain not to give any substantial encouragement to the opposition.

MICHIGAN.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

JACKSON, Mich., Aug. 26.—Col. Burroughs, of Kalamazoo, gave a scathing review of the Liberal Republican Democracy movement to-night, demanding which was the party most fitted to govern, that which conducted us safely through the war and had brought peace and prosperity since, or the rebels and scoreheads who had been its worst enemies. The meeting closed with three rousing cheers for Grant and Wilson. The meeting was large and enthusiastic.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Large Republican Gathering in Harrisburg.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

HARRISBURG, Penn., Aug. 26.—One of the largest Republican meetings ever held in this city took place to-night, and was addressed by Hon. John Scott, of Huntington, and Col. Thomas Fitzgerald, of Philadelphia, and others.

Trouble in the Labor Reform Movement.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., Aug. 26.—Henry L. Acker, Chairman of the Labor Reform State Central Committee, denounces as an unfounded canard the report of a State Convention of the Labor Reform Party said to have been held in this city on the 23d inst. He declares that no such Convention was held; that the reported proceedings thereat are a fraud, and that the parties whose names appear in the reports are unknown in connection with the Labor Reform Party of Pennsylvania.

WEST VIRGINIA.

Thirty-One Counties Heard From—The Fate of the New Constitution Still in Doubt.

WHEELING, West Va., Aug. 26.—A special dispatch to the Chronicle says: Thirty-one counties, reported up to noon today, give Jacob 5,298 majority; twenty-eight counties give 1,367 majority against the Constitution. Davis, the Independent Democrat for Congress, is elected in this district.

The Vote in the Third Congressional District.

GREENBRIER, WHITE SULPHER SPRINGS, West Va., Aug. 26.—In this, the Third Congressional District, the nine counties heard from give Camden a majority of 1,000. The twelve counties unheard from will, at a fair estimate, give Camden 2,500 majority; making his majority in the district 3,500.

CONNECTICUT.

Death of Hon. Ralph J. Ingersoll.

NEW-HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 26.—Hon. Ralph J. Ingersoll died in this city at 6 o'clock this morning, after a short illness, in the eighty-fourth year of his age. He was for many years a leading lawyer in this State; he represented New-Haven in the State Legislature during seven consecutive years from 1819; he served in Congress four consecutive terms from 1825, and was upon important committees, including the Committee on Ways and Means. After his Congressional career he resumed the practice of the law in New-Haven, and was State Attorney. He was offered the appointment of United State Senator, but declined, not wishing to re-enter political life. He was appointed Minister Plenipotentiary to Russia by President Polk, and remained abroad for two years. He had since lived quietly in this city.

"Precious Stones" from Plano Blanco—The Indian Troubles Exaggerated—An Earthquake at Kanob.

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 26.—Mr. Savage's expedition, fitted out in this city some four weeks ago, to search for precious gems, has been heard from. A letter was received here this afternoon, dated Plano Blanco, New-Mexico, Aug. 17, with a consignment of about a quart of rubies, emeralds, garnets, opals, and a variety of bright stones, supposed to be diamonds. Crowds of people are examining the specimens with much interest. A sample of the whole lot will be forwarded to lapidaries in New-York to-morrow. Mr. Savage writes that he will send another collection, of better quality, in a few days.

Gen. Ord returned from the South last night, and telegraphed Gen. Sheridan today that the Indian troubles have been much exaggerated. He says that all the Indians having reservations have gone home. There may be a fight on the San Pete, but it will not be serious. He expects the troops back in three weeks.

Three shocks of earthquake were felt in Kanob, the southern section of the Territory.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

A Reign of Terror in Saulsbury, N. C.—Cheering Reports from Alabama—Miscellaneous Matters.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Information has been received here by high officials to the effect that the condition of affairs in North Carolina, particularly in Saulsbury and vicinity, is such that unless prompt measures are taken there is very great danger of a general reign of lawlessness and crime. It seems that Saulsbury at the present time is virtually in the possession of a mob of armed rebels, and that the City authorities are either powerless or unwilling to preserve the peace, and preserve life and property. The Associated Press agents fail to communicate the exact condition of affairs, or, indeed, to send anything at all bearing upon the situation. The disorder is occasioned principally by H. H. Helper, a brother of Impending Crisis Helper, who is publishing a Greeley organ, filled with the grossest abuse of everyone in sympathy with the Administration and the Republican Party. An abusive attack on Mr. Henderson, Assessor of internal revenue, and one of the leading politicians in that section, printed by Helper a few days ago, led to a caning of Helper by Henderson. Helper's friends immediately organized a gang of roughs and threatened Mr. Henderson's life. Henderson, in self-defense, was compelled to fire upon them, and since then there have been the wildest scenes of disorder. A general reign of violence and intimidation is being inaugurated by the ex-rebels and Greeley party. On the same night and in the same house in which Henderson was attacked, Col. H. C. Walser, Presidential elector on the Republican ticket, was brutally maltreated and nearly beaten to death.

ALABAMA.

Judge Martin, Sixth Auditor of the Treasury Department, who has just returned here from Alabama, brings highly encouraging accounts of the campaign in that State. The colored vote is unanimous for the Republican ticket, and there is very little doubt that the State will give its electoral vote for Gen. Grant in November.

COLORED MILITIA GOING TO RICHMOND.

A colored military organization of this city, the "Stanton Battalion," having obtained the requisite permission of the Government of Virginia to take arms into that Commonwealth, which is necessary under the laws of the State, will shortly make a visit to the colored military organizations of Richmond.

STEAM-BOAT BOILERS MUST BE CLEANED.

The question having been presented to the Treasury Department whether a Steam-boat Inspector can exempt a steamer from cleaning her boilers, a response has been made that it is imperative that means be provided for removing mud and sediment from all parts of boilers when under pressure of steam, and that the Inspectors are to be governed by the rules of the Board of Supervising Inspectors in regard to the kind of appliances used.

POSTAL CARDS.

Some idea of the extent of disappointment experienced throughout the country by the recent discovery that the Post-office Department will have to wait for a specific appropriation by Congress before it can furnish the postal cards, may be obtained from the statement that up to today applications have been made to the Department for over 2,000,000 of these cards, and about twenty-five informal proposals have been made by manufacturers to supply them after the designs have been determined.

THE REVENUE MARINE.

The following changes of engineer officers of the United States Revenue Marine Corps have been made; First Assistant Engineer Joseph L. Reilly has been detached from the Mahoning at Boston, and ordered to the Jasmine, at New-York; First Assistant Polhemus, has been detached from the Jasmine and ordered to the Seward, at Wilmington, N. C.; Second Assistant George M. Robinson has been detached from the Seward and ordered to the Search, at Philadelphia; Second Assistant Engineer James Ogden detached from the Search, and ordered to the Mahoning.

NAVAL NEWS.

The Yantic dropped down to the naval anchorage at Norfolk on the 24th, preparatory to going to sea.

The Resaca arrived at Paputi, Tahita, June 2, thirty days from Callao, after a pleasant passage. Lieut.-Commander N. Green, reports that the Consul at Paputi informed him that the whaling bark William Gifford arrived at that port a short time previous in charge of the crew, the crew having mutinied and dethroned the Captain for ill-treatment and for prostituting his cruise, and that he (the Consul) had placed the vessel in charge of another person, and that she had sailed for San Francisco on the morning of the arrival of the Resaca. The French corvette Vandine was in port. The Resaca would give liberty to the crew, and sail on the 10th inst. for the Navigators' Islands. The officers and crew, without exception,

MONDAY, Aug. 26—P. M.

A failure among the Brokers on the Bull account, in the Gold Room, announced this forenoon, caused the sales of Gold to run down to 112¼ ℔ cent., from which point there was a subsequent recovery to 112⅝@112¾ ℔ cent. The later sales denoted more steadiness in the market, at about the closing figure of Saturday Afternoon. The extent of the failure referred to is said to involve differences to the amount of about $80,000, the principal creditors being among the immediate friends of the Broker in default. The decline in Gold on Saturday and today has somewhat stiffened the rates of Exchange on London, and 109@109¼ ℔ cent. for sixty days is quoted today, as against 108¾@109 ℔ cent. at the close of last week.

Since the foregoing paragraph was written we have a report on the Street that the unfortunate Broker has left town, supposed with $20,000 in cash. But, whether this report be true or false, the probability is that the whole amount of his differences will not exceed the sum of $80,000, as at first stated. His connections are of the first respectability.

The rates for Money among the Brokers today are 4@6 ℔ cent. The supply offered on temporary loan is still very liberal, and the calculation upon high rates of Interest is not likely to be realized for some weeks to come.

Late in the day the Exchange on London, 60 days, is called not over 109 ℔ cent. net, and the market less firm than reported at the opening of business this morning.

Stocks are looking firm at the Exchange Board, and there seems a pretty strong demand for Erie and Central and most of the Western Roads and also for Pacific Mail and Western Telegraph. The theory that dearer money and enhanced business with the South and West from the new crops, implying, of course, larger traffic on the Railroads later in the season, will improve speculation in the Stock Exchange, is evidently gaining ground, and report says that some of the recent heavy Bulls in the Gold Room who have abandoned speculation in that quarter because of the flattering look of the Fall Trade and the prospects of the Presidential Election, are making ready to take hold of Stocks for a decided upward turn in prices.

The extraordinary receipts of the New-York Central and Hudson River Roads, for the railroad year ending 30th September, proximo, which it is said will exceed Twenty-six millions of dollars, have given rise to a rumor that the October Half-yearly Dividend of the Company will be raised to Five ℔ cent. We doubt the correctness of this mere inference from the heavy receipts of the year, but that the value of the property, by permanent improvements, out of these receipts, will be greatly enhanced after paying the customary dividends of Four ℔ cent., Half-yearly, we have no doubt. Such receipts are unprecedented in the history of the American railroad system. They exceed, in a single year, the whole capital of the New-York Central, when the road was consolidated in 1853, by three millions of dollars. The receipts of the road that year were considered great at $5,400,000!

The turn of the Stock market near the close of dealings in the Exchange Hall, this afternoon, was to increased firmness, and a general demand and advance in most of the New-York and Western Roads, and also in Pacific Mail and Telegraph. At the very close the following quotations were made as compared with Saturday afternoon. The Public Funds were weak on the decline in Gold. Gold was partially better later in the day, sales, 112¾@112¾ ℔ cent.

The business over the Lake Shore Road in August is unprecedented in amount. In the third week of the month the earnings were $327,000, comparing with $277,000 the same week last year. The increase for the current year will, from present appearances, exceed two million of dollars.

The North British and Mercantile Insurance Company, of London and Edinburgh, have declared a Dividend of Ten ℔ cent. out of its earnings for the six months ending July 1, 1872.

The following is a corrected return of estimated weekly earnings of the Erie Railway Company, commencing April 1, 1872:

BANKING AND FINANCIAL.

A STRONG SECURITY.

We recommend the Bonds of the JACKSONVILLE, NORTH-WESTERN AND SOUTH-EASTERN RAILWAY, running from Jacksonville, Ill., to Mount Vernon, a distance of 125 miles, as ABSOLUTELY SAFE on the following grounds:

1. Because they are the FIRST MORTGAGE on a railroad running through a thickly populated section of country, rich in agriculture and minerals. The Counties of Morgan, Macoupin, Montgomery, Bond, Clinton, Marion and Jefferson, all of which are intersected by the road, are all remarkable for their agricultural productions, some of them raising wheat which commands a higher price in the market than that produced in any other locality. As Virden, where the deposits of bituminous coal are seven feet in depth, a large business will be created so soon as cheap transportation is assured by the construction of this road to accessible markets.

2. Because the need of additional railroad facilities in that quarter, for the purposes of travel and the transportation of minerals and the surplus crops, has been so strongly felt, that the municipalities and prominent inhabitants have subscribed the money wherewithal thirty miles of the road has been already completed, and is now in operation, and material purchased and arrangements made for the laying of twenty additional miles of track in time to move the Autumn crops.

3. Because the following great railroads act as feeders to the road, viz.: The Tpiedo, Wabash and Western Railroad; the Peoria, Pekin and Jacksonville Railroad; the Chicago and Alton Railroad; the Indianapolis and St. Louis Railroad; the Terre Haute Railroad; the Vandalia and St. Louis Railroad; and the Illinois Central Railroad. Moreover, the road forms a part of a through route from St. Louis to the sea-board.

4. Because it is a well-ascertained fact that nineteenths of the earnings of Western roads arise from local traffic, and one-tenth only from through traffic. The great State lines of Illinois are probably the strongest corporations in the country, and, after completion, this road will unquestionably take its place among them.

By investing in these bonds, holders of Government and other high-priced securities will still hold an unquestionable security, while adding largely to their income.

Price 85 and accrued interest in currency. Pamphlets on application.

The Democratic papers are compelled to admit that things do not look well for the Philosopher. The personal organ of the "Doctor" calls upon its followers to organize, and decides that if they do not stop beating the gong, and go to work to get votes, they will be beaten themselves. The Herald—that queer political weather-cock—has for two days in succession declared that the current is setting in favor of Grant, while the World devotes over a long-winded column to an exposition of the causes why "the Democratic-Liberal canvass has seemed to move rather heavily for the last two or three weeks." It omits to mention, as one of the causes, the numerous reasons it urged against Mr. GREELEY'S nomination, probably because it forgets that every one cannot change position as often as the editor of that journal. We venture to suggest to the Tribune, Herald and World that the true reason of the change they perceive is that noise and lying cannot long deceive the American people, and that reflection and discussion are bringing out clearly the issues involved. The people see that GREELEY'S supporters are influenced chiefly by hope and hate—hope of the offices they want, and hate for those who have not bestowed offices as the haters desired.

The result of the election in West Virginia was another blow to the Greeley faction, although, in making a note of it, the "Philosopher's" papers pretend that it was of no consequence. The system of philosophy invented by Mr. Toots is extensively practiced just now in the school of the Sage. The Republicans did not, indeed, put a straight ticket in the field, but there was a Greeley-Democratic candidate in the field, and he was badly beaten. Had he been elected, the public would have heard a great deal about the "turning of the tide," and the wonderful progress which was being made in the path of reform, as understood by Tammany. Everywhere defeat follows in the footsteps of the disgraceful coalition. Their frauds in North Carolina did not save them—and they could not even carry their candidate in West Virginia. What sort of a chance do they stand in Vermont and Maine? Every man who goes for GREELEY in either State might as well cast it for ANDREW JACKSON at once.

Tennessee seems admirably adapted for almost any political purpose except that of voting the Republican tickets. Letters from persons who did not expect to serve any party purpose in writing them afford evidence of frauds in many of the counties, but especially in Williamson, Giles and Marshall, by which negroes who supposed they were voting for a Unionist for Circuit Judge were made to vote for his Democratic competitor, by the simple process of having their tickets taken away and others substituted. The Democrats there having had practice at this sort of thing, ought to be able to give Mr. GREELEY a handsome majority in November. TWEED would undoubtedly have tried something in the same line in New-York, if his patent voting-machine were not out of repair, notwithstanding the efforts of the "Reformed Democracy" to keep it in working order.

The organ of the Sleeping Sage attacks Mr. HENRY CLEWS because he expressed the opinion that Mr. MURPHY was "the best Collector we have had for the past twelve years," and in the same article praises Mr. A. T. STEWART, apparently ignorant of the fact that the latter gentleman had under oath volunteered the statement: "I must say that, so far as my experience has been, Mr. MURPHY conducted the business as well as any one else that has recently been in the place."

If there is one party more utterly extinct than another in this country, it is that of the "Know-nothings." Nevertheless, Mr. GREELEY'S paper labors to prove, not only that Senator WILSON was a Know-nothing, but is one now, and if elected Vice-President—or, as it says, "President"—would be bound to oppose the appointment of naturalized citizens to office. It would be degrading to the human mind to have to rebut such arguments as these, and that they should be seriously urged by Mr. GREELEY'S spokesmen, only affords another proof of the supernatural stupidity of the men into whose hands he has intrusted his precious cause.

Mr. VANDERBILT has not yet been able to do anything for the inhabitants of the district above Forty-second-street in reference to the hideous noises which his engine-drivers create throughout the night. The whistling, bell-ringing and blowing-off of steam are a greater nuisance than ever, and it is impossible to believe that they are absolutely essential to the management of traffic on that road. Thousands of our fellow-citizens are kept awake half the night by this unearthly din. Once more we appeal to Mr. VANDERBILT to have some pity on people who live in this district, and not act as if he were determined to depopulate it.

Senator TRUMBULL might have excited rather more attention than he was able to do in Portland, Me., yesterday, had he made some attempt to answer the ugly charges against his integrity which were made in the TIMES of July 6, and which remain to this day unanswered. People would have listened with much greater interest to some explanations about the corrupt and unconstitutional manner of his election to the United States Senate, about his insatiable appetite for office for himself and his friends, and about the very fat retainer which he held in the McCardle case, than they did to his rehash of stale slanders, and his quota of fresh insinuations and reckless misstatements.

The Vermont Election.

It is admitted that there is no doubt concerning the result of the election in Vermont, on Tuesday next. The only question is what will be the Republican majority? Ever since the protracted struggle against slavery and its consequent evils began, the Green Mountain State has always been arrayed as steadily and surely as Massachusetts upon the side of freedom. From the rugged hills and busy valleys of that narrow strip of the North there has never come an uncertain sound, and there is no reason to doubt that the State will speak as clearly and unmistakably as ever on Tuesday next.

But it must be remembered that it has been customary for the Republican majority in Vermont to fluctuate greatly. Going as far back as 1856, we find a majority of 28,647 for FREMONT, but in 1860 LINCOLN had only 22,974. In 1864, when the nation was in the third year of the civil war, and the Democracy had declared at Chicago that it was a failure, the majority for LINCOLN was 29,098; and in 1868 the attempted surrender to the baffled rebellion through SEYMOUR was rebuked by a majority for Gen. GRANT of 31,863. Vermont in this vote excelled all previous efforts, and has never done as well since. With the defeat of 1868 the Democratic Party in the State was virtually wiped out of existence, and there has been a large falling off in the aggregate of Republican majorities. In 1869 we had only 20,879, and in 1870, 21,309.

These figures should be carefully kept in mind. They become suggestive when we consider the possibilities of Tuesday next. It is admitted that both the State tickets are excellent, and that there are no complications of a local character to affect the vote. We might, therefore, reasonably expect an average Republican majority, and yet it may fall a little below the standard without affording any indication that there has been a Republican defection to Greeleyism. Although the correspondents say that a great deal of work is being done by both parties, we have seen no evidence that a searching or vigorous canvass, like that in Maine, is being carried on. The Republicans of Vermont have been fighting the shadow of a political party, so far as they are locally concerned, for so many years that they cannot be blamed if they tire of the sport. The votes since 1868 show that they have tired, and we shall not be surprised, nor find in the fact any evidence of the "ground swell" of which we have heard so much, if the vote of Tuesday shall confirm this idea. If the Republican majority should go down to 15,000, which is not likely to be the case, it would only be evidence that the Republicans of Vermont do not see so clearly as their brethren in North Carolina that the serpent of Democracy has been "scotched," but not killed.

We trust, however, that our friends of the Green Mountains will bestir themselves to bring out the full vote of the party. There is no doubt whatever that if every vote which honestly belongs to us is polled, our majority will be over rather than under twenty thousand. It is a duty the Republicans of Vermont owe the nation they have served so well in the past to lead the vanguard of freedom once more in such force as to encourage their brethren all over the land. Their local affairs may not have sufficient interest to attract them to the polls, and they may believe that having loocally buried Democracy beyond the hope of resurrection, there is no occasion for further effort on their part. We hope they will not allow themselves to be led astray by these considerations, but will tax all their strength to poll their full vote. By so doing they will hasten the disintegration of that coalition which has disgusted the world. Let Vermont encourage Republicans all over the Union, and her good work will be held in grateful recollection.

Senator Trumbull as a Democrat.

There seems to be something in the atmosphere of Maine that compels the pilgrims from Illinois, who are just now attempting to enlighten the people of the Pine Tree State as to their political duty, to act absurdly. Senator TRUMBULL the other night was at Biddeford, as he said, "to reason with the people in regard to public affairs;" but he would have been nearer the mark if he had said he was there to talk about public affairs, for there was very little reason in his speech, as we find it reported in his Democratic organ.

Senator TRUMBULL, it appears, has been terribly oppressed, and wishes to be "emancipated from a despotism as intolerable as any this country has ever known," and he explains that by this fine phrase he means party despotism. The Republican Party has become false to its purposes, and therefore he has joined hands with FENTON and TWEED to secure financial and civil service reform, and with the Southern Democracy to establish the rights of man on an enduring basis. In his view, the known profligate who has promised to reform is more trustworthy than he who never went astray; and the party which omitted no means to prevent the giving of civil rights to the negro should be more trusted to enforce them than the party which struggled so manfully to confer them. But Senator TRUMBULL is not altogether sure that the Republican Party has done anything for humanity. He denies the claim of the Philadelphia platform, and says that it was the people, not the Republican Party, who carried on the war against the rebellion and enfranchised the negroes. We are sorry the Senator is forced, in his apostacy, to copy the twaddle of Democrats, who are attempting to share in the glory of work they bitterly denounced while it was being carried on. But neither the Democrats nor Senator TRUMBULL can make the people forget that the war was waged, the country saved, and a race lifted out of bondage, through the agency of a party, and that the party which was thus used was the Republican Party. Nor can the people be made to forget that, during all these eventful years, the Democratic Party was in arms against the Government in the South, or giving aid and comfort by its official utterances in the North to the enemies of the Government.

But the Senator from Illinois shows most conclusively that he has been thoroughly converted to Democracy in this extract:

"There are no rebels. The rebellion received its death-blow on the battle-field more than seven years ago. As we have expunged the word 'slave' from our midst, so let us expunge the word 'rebel.' But even allowing that he is supported by rebels, recall, if you please, the time when your Convention met in Philadelphia. You looked around for some one to preside over it, and whom did you select? An old rebel, a man by the name of SETTLE. But when Gen. GRANT wanted an Attorney-General a while ago, whom did he select? He went to Georgia and appointed Mr. AKERMAN, a man who had served all through the war on the staff of that arch-traitor, ROBERT TOOMBS."

These are no rebels, says the Senator, but if they are, then they are such men as Judge SETTLE and Mr. AKERMAN. This is another familiar argument of Democracy. They can see little difference between the man who, having been arrayed in arms against the Government, admits he was beaten, and logically labors for the pacification of the country upon the basis of the amended Constitution, and the man who, also having been in arms, rejects the amendments and, overthrown on the battle-field, has recourse to every possible means of political and social action to prevent pacification, with equality before the law for all men. The Senator is disposed to put the Kuklux, which murders and scourges for opinion sake, a little higher in the public estimation than such men as SETTLE, who admit they were rebels, and, from the close of the war until now, have labored honestly and heartily in support of that policy of reconstruction which the Republican Party adopted and has sought to carry out.

The majority of the people will hardly agree with Senator TRUMBULL. They know that to the Republican Party is due all that makes the nation great today. They cannot hope that it will be made greater by such men as GREELEY, FENTON, and SCHURZ. They know that the triumph of these men means the triumph of the Democracy. They know that with that party in possession of the Government, the amendments will be mere nullities, for want of enforcement by the legislative and executive departments, and that they must begin again and fight inch by inch the weary battle for human rights. Only the Republican Party has proved faithful and capable; only that party can be trusted in the future.

No Meat.

When BYRON dined with ROGERS, he munched crackers washed down with soda-water—and afterward quietly stole off to his club, and feasted sumptuously on beef-steaks and porter. A dish of chopped potatoes drenched with vinegar was a favorite affectation of his when seen of men; but, however often he

"* * Poured huge drafts of sorrow down,
And banqueted on tears,"

the noble bard not unfrequently solaced himself on diet of a far more exhilarating character. In a word, BYRON sought to unite the credit of abstinence with the pleasures of indulgence, and even in eating his victuals, could not resist the temptation, with him so exceptionally powerful, to excite surprise.

Now, what BYRON did for the sake of effect, and his brother poet, SHELLEY, for the sake of conviction, what GRAHAM so vigorously preached and the Shakers so rigidly practice, there is serious danger that the greater part of mankind will soon be reduced to observe out of sheer necessity. The price of butchers' meat in England is rising with alarming rapidity. An advance of some twenty-five per cent. has taken place within a very short time, and the tendency is still upward. The English laboring classes have been sadly stinted in animal food for many generations; but, if matters go on as at present, we are assured they will ere long be forced to abstain altogether. It has been held by some that the scarcity which occasions the rise in meat has its origin in exceptional conditions; but the report just issued by the Veterinary Department of the Privy Council certainly fails to warrant such a view. Cattle-plague, dry weather, the foot and mouth disease, high wages, and pleuro-pneumonia, are the chief reasons assigned for the high prices. Yet, as regards wages, they have been increasing for generations, and so have numbers, and drouth is surely not peculiar to our own immediate time; while the rise in the price of meat has been remarkably sudden and spasmodic, and, in fact, has taken place within a very few years. As regards cattle plague, the report we speak of is authority for the statement that no case of the disease has occurred in England since September, 1867. The foot and mouth trouble has been a great bugbear; but the tables show that since the Animal Contagious Diseases Act passed in England, in 1869, of the whole number of animals attacked hardly more than one per cent. have died. Besides this, the importation of beasts has greatly augmented; since the 508 802 of all sorts, imported in 1869, had risen last year to 1,250,116. On the whole, the causes usually ascribed are insufficient to account for the effect in question; which must, we conceive, be attributed in a greater measure to a vastly-increased demand for animal food among all classes, and a coincident fall in the value of money.

The supply of dried meats brought from Australia does not seem in any appreciable degree to have checked the upward turn, and it may be worth while for our Texan graziers to consider whether the exigency cannot be made profitable to themselves. Swift steamers, running say from Galveston to Southampton, might, perhaps, even now be put in the cattle trade to advantage, and if the rise continues, there could be no doubt of the early success of such a speculation. For our own supply, the vast plains between the Rocky Mountains and the Pacific for some time will furnish a stock ample, no doubt, but still not more so than will be required to keep down that expansion in the price of this commodity which is almost as marked here as in England, but which the larger means of the bulk of our population renders less troublesome. Ultimately, however, the serious question now agitating England will, we suppose, present itself throughout the world, and What are we to do for meat? will be heard on the Hudson and Sacramento as well as on the Thames. Of course, there are the rats of the Chinese and the blubber of the Esquimaux, but there must be an end to the supply of even these delicacies, and the difficult problem of new substitutes will face mankind afresh. It is gratifying, under these prospective circumstances, to be able to suggest some rational palliatives. In the first place, it is well known that demand induces supply, and, just as more Havana cigars are smoked and more champagne drank than can possibly be produced in the regions whence they are presumed to come, so fresh droves of cattle may be hoped for to meet the critical emergency even in defiance of all laws of statistics and propagation. A more tangible consolation to scientific minds may, however, be found in the fact that if the prodigious heat of the current season, both in Europe and America, is to continue, the demand for oxygenated, as distinguished from carbonized, food must necessarily increase, and the meat market thus be relieved in a ratio indicated by the thermometer.

The Children's Fund.

We published yesterday a full statement of the accounts of the Children's Fund, showing the receipts and expenditures up to Saturday last. These figures were given as they appear on the Treasurer's books, and afford a full description of the amount of work performed and the good accomplished under the fund. The contributors will thus be enabled to see at a glance exactly how their money is being expended, and the benefits they have conferred upon the poor children of this City.

From these accounts it appears that the aggregate amount received for the fund up to and including Saturday was $18,900 26. Of this sum, there had been expended $10,289 17 to defray the expenses of fourteen excursions and the relief work in the four districts established under the fund. But it is not from these figures that any adequate idea can be gained of the labor performed by those engaged in carrying out the details of the movement. In the fourteen excursions comprised in this statement, 11,830 children participated, together with 1,647 adults, (parents and guardians.) The expenses were $7,971 64, making the individual cost for each person a fraction over fifty-six cents, a result largely due to the liberality of those who furnished railroad trains, barges, steamers, or supplies—a fact which shows the popularity of the fund, and the objects for which it was called into existence. In the relief work, the statistics are even more interesting in their results. During the six weeks that it has been in operation, there were 24,402 visits made to families, and of these, 2,339 families needed relief and were supplied. The number of children furnished with provisions was 5,843, besides 374 adults. The number of medical visits made was 1,247, besides 161 made gratuitously. The number of families at present receiving relief is 813, in which 1,940 children enjoy the benefits of the fund. The number of children remaining under medical attendance is 94, and of the whole number so far attended 613 have been restored to health—a wonderful result. The expenses of this branch of the fund was $2,617 53. These facts carry their own lesson, and prove the great necessity for some such movement in this crowded City during the hot months of every recurring year.

Although sixteen excursions will have been given by the close of the present week, the balance of the fund still in hand will be large enough to enable us to make arrangements for a few more picnics, if the weather seems to require them, in order that the children of the poor may enjoy the full benefit of the money placed in our hands. The relief movement will, of course, continue for some weeks, after which we shall consult with the contributors of the fund as to the disposition of the amount remaining unexpended. It will doubtless be considered best by them to keep it as a nucleus for the operations of next Summer, in which case we shall place it in trust and at interest for that purpose. The sum now received raises the total amount subscribed to upward of $19,000. We hope that next year the business of superintending these picnics will be kindly undertaken by Mr. Brace, of the Children's Aid Society. We have done the work this year with much satisfaction and pleasure, but it has been at a cost of labor and anxiety little known by any one outside our own office. The fund has, however, been the means of doing a vast amount of good, and, under Providence, of saving hundreds of lives; and we may honestly say, that no money ever subscribed for purposes of charity was more economically administered than this. There has been no expense for officers or secretaries. We have paid all the actual expenses of managing the picnics, and we sincerely hope that the plan thus commenced will become a permanent feature of our City life in the Summer.

Their Loss our Gain.

At about the time of the Cincinnati Convention, and its wretched miscarriage in the nomination of HORACE GREELEY, the little crowd of enraged politicians and Tammany Republicans surrounding that unhappy old man were all shouting at the top of their voices that the Republican Party had survived its usefulness—indeed, was practically dead. The Republican Party, however, declined to accept the dreadful fate to which it was consigned even by these authorities, and speedily gave abundant evidence not only of life, but of vigorous and aggressive existence. There are men who fondly imagine that their own withdrawal from any party reduces their former companions to a state of helpless confusion and despair. It is needless to say that such persons take too gloomy a view of the situation. Indeed, it sometimes happens that their loss turns out to be a great gain to the cause they abandon. No honest Republican, for instance, suffers very acutely because the Tammany Democracy has swallowed FENTON. On the contrary, we all feel that it is eminently a case of the right man in the right place, and an increase of purity and harmony in our State Republican organization promptly succeeds the welcome desertion of so bad a man.

The fact is that the Republican Party was never more united, more thoroughly convinced of the necessity of its existence, more determined on success, and never better organized to win success, than it is today. The boobies who predicted its death forgot that the Republican Party is a party of ideas and convictions, conscience and definite aim; that its vote is not to be bartered or controlled by trading politicians, but will be cast in truth and earnestness for the principles it professes, and to assure the completion of the work which it has set itself to do. Turning the Tribune from a Republican into a Democratic organ is not, as that paper has found out to its cost, equivalent to carrying the Republican Party over to Tammany. Mr. GREELEY and the Tribune may make such a somersault with what grace they may be able, and with such professions of conscience as they may deem necessary, but the party which made them both cannot take the leap. So it counts them out, and goes on without them to maintain its principles, fighting the harder because of the defection which it means to turn into a source of power.

From all parts of the country, we get reports of marvelous activity among Republicans. They have never fought a Presidential campaign with more earnestness than they are exhibiting in this one. United, harmonious, devoted to their principles, and indignant at the abandonment of them by a few discontented politicians, they are determined that their cause shall not only succeed, but succeed so signally as to give a death-blow to their enemies, and purify our politics by the popular repudiation of the most disreputable bargain ever attempted in the history of American partisan contests. Neither TILTON nor KILPATRICK, nor HAGERTY nor COCHRANE, need waste any time in reading funeral orations over the Republican Party. It is not only alive, but the healthier for having sloughed them off.

The British Association.

The philosophers are becoming more reverent. That is, if we may judge by their annual manifesto to the outside world, as delivered by Dr. WILLIAM B. CARPENTER, the President for the year, of the British Association. During the thirty-six years of its existence this body has been accustomed to make itself the mouth-piece of the savant militant, as against the frequently denunciatory and always objurgatory theologian. But, according to Dr. CARPENTER, the men of science are beginning to perceive that their method of induction may not be the measure of the universe after all, that the sublime modesty of a KEPLER and a NEWTON is more worthy of imitation than the offensive dogmatism of sundry self-styled philosophers, not unknown to contemporary literature. The great physiologist protests against the common tendency of the mechanical philosophy of the day to express itself in terms of motion, rather than in terms of force, i. e., to dwell more upon the mere succession of phenomena than on the "efficient cause" of their occurrence. Further, he protests against assuming the purely human conception of scientific law, or, in other words, our record of the observation of certain orderly sequences in nature, to be an infallible expression of the ideas of its Great Author. To exclude from or render unnecessary to the operation of such laws, the power which alone can give them effect, appears to Dr. CARPENTER to be "as arrogant as it is unphilosophical." That there may be no mistake about his meaning, the President of the British Association summarizes the scope of scientific pursuits in the following sentences, which are as eloquent as they are terse and perspicuous:

"But when science, passing beyond its own limits, assumes to take the place of theology and sets up its own conception of the order of nature as a sufficient account of its cause, it is invading a province of thought to which it has no claim, and not unreasonably provokes the hostility of those who ought to be its best friends. For, while the deep-seated instincts of humanity and the profoundest researches of philosophy alike point to mind as the one and only source of power, it is the prerogative of science to demonstrate the unity of the power which is operating through the limitless extent and variety of the universe, and to trace its continuity through the vast series of ages that have been occupied in its evolution."

Apart from the loftiness of its tone and purpose, there is nothing very new to be found in the inaugural address. Addressing an audience whose popular elements greatly exceeded its scientific ones, Dr. CARPENTER is, of course, compelled to adopt a style of somewhat familiar exposition of things which, scientifically speaking, are among the rudiments of the philosophies. The only attempt at independent speculation to be found in the address, is a contribution made to the controversy between the intuitionalists and the experimentalists, i. e., between the people who hold that we are born with a mental tendency to form certain primary beliefs about space, time, extension and the like, and those who hold that all our knowledge is founded upon certain generalizations made consciously or unconsciously from actual experience. This metaphysical squabble is as old as philosophy itself. The "innate idea" men find abundant illustration of their dogmas in the Dialogues of Plato, and the people who swear by experience can draw plenty of ammunition from ARISTOTLE'S logic and metaphysics. A similar divergence of speculative standpoint set the school-men of the middle ages by the ears, under the opposing factions of Nominalists and Realists. JOHN LOCKE was understood to have settled the controversy on the side of experience, but KANT and the later Germans set things all abroad again; and, together with some deeper metaphysical mysteries which grew out of it, the controversy is, perhaps, fresher, and certainly rather better defined, in this year of grace than it has been throughout long ages of speculation.

Into this terrible muddle Dr. CARPENTER throws, with characteristic modesty, his little bit of physiologico-metaphysical suggestion. Nothing but his exact words can do justice to this, and here is the essential part of them:

"Now, as there can be no doubt of the hereditary transmission in man of acquired constitutional peculiarities, which manifest themselves alike in tendencies to bodily and to mental disease, so it seems equally certain that acquired mental habitudes often impress themselves on his organization, with sufficient force and permanence to occasion their transmission to the offspring as tendencies to similar modes of thought. And thus, while all admit that knowledge cannot thus descend from one generation to another, an increased aptitude for the acquirement, either of knowledge generally or of some particular kind of it, may be thus inherited. These tendencies and aptitudes will acquire additional strength, expansion and permanence in each new generation, from their habitual exercise upon the materials supplied by a continually enlarged experience; and thus the acquired habitudes produced by the intellectual culture of ages will become 'a second nature' to every one who inherits them."

Whether this throws any light upon the vexed question of the basis of knowledge may be safely left to the savants to decide. The theory would have been more satisfactory had the Doctor hazarded some explanation of the inexplicable exhaustion of certain "mental habitudes" in families as well as races. Not only do men "write themselves out," but the distinctive kind of energy which fixes the type to which they belong frequently refuses to be transmitted to their descendants. This may, and frequently does, happen in the presence of a remarkable similarity of physical contour and apparent cerebral likeness. Perhaps Dr. CARPENTER never thought over George Eliot's suggestive allusions to the omission in the organism of weak and sinning Hetty Sorrel of the hereditary counterparts to her face and manner. He must have known plenty of people, however, whose face and cranium were those of the ancestral type, but had become a mere mask as far as forming any index to the character of their possessor was concerned, and he could hardly be but conscious that the tempting generalities of his theory stood but indifferently well the test of special application.

MINOR TOPICS.

In the Greeley "organ" of yesterday, there was a good sample of the process of incubating falsehood, according to the Fentonian canons of journalism. The thing is done in this way. In an obscure country paper called the Amsterdam Democrat, there appears on Friday, Aug. 23, the copy of a badly spelt letter purporting to have been sent by one Z. TAYLOR, who dates from No. 326 East Ninth-street, and calls himself a TIMES reporter. This personage is supposed to be anxious to hear from Mr. JOHN KELLOGG, of Amsterdam, as to whether he has joined the Greeley camp. Thereupon the "Hon." JOHN makes haste to declare that the apocryphal Z. TAYLOR has correctly indicated the actual fact, and that as the Democrat has it, he is "an out-and-out Greely Republican," whatever kind of monster that may be. Then the Tribune of yesterday quotes the story with the usual silly kind of commentary. Only it omits all mention of the Amsterdam Democrat and of Z. TAYLOR, who, from No. 326 East Ninth-street, wanted to be "oblidged," and boldly states that one of the persons employed on "the TIMES wrote post-haste" to learn the intentions of this precious "Hon." man of Amsterdam. It is hardly necessary for us to say that Z. TAYLOR, if he exists at all, is an individual perfectly unknown to us. We have not taken the trouble to inquire who lives at No. 326 East Ninth-street, but examination would doubtless reveal the fact that there is somebody there who has been induced to perpetrate a clumsy forgery, either for the sake of gratifying the vanity of "Hon." Mr. KELLOGG, or for helping the Professor to a new falsehood, or for both these purposes combined.

So much has been asserted as to the terrible events of the last two years having failed to leave an enduring and appropriate impression on the face of French society, that it is gratifying to find a special correspondent telling quite a different tale, and descanting upon "the happy transformation" which a popular sea side resort has undergone: "Swarms of children are playing on the beach, honorable mothers, and grave men who seek repose, are reappearing here, and with the example of that active, vigilant, patriotic old man, who, even as Trouville, devotes himself to the incessant labors which the wants of the country impose upon him, all the triflers disappear, all the mere idlers absent themselves. France, now almost restored to herself, begins to understand that the time of giddy laughter is passed away, and that the hour for work has struck." So that, taken with the loan, it would seem that moral and material France are at length keeping step.

A former resident of Arizona, who is thoroughly familiar with the so-called diamond regions, asserts that Arizona diamonds are nothing more than peculiarly brilliant quartz crystals. Of these he has repeatedly collected large quantities, for the amusement of the little ones of his acquaintance, among whom he has thus lavished incalculable wealth,—provided quartz crystals and diamonds are synonymous. Even were the extravagant stories of the mineral wealth of Arizona to be literally true, it would be madness for any one to attempt to reach the diamond region except in company with a well-armed and abundantly-provisioned caravan. The country is completely barren, and swarms with hostile savages. If any man wishes to risk his health, and waste his time, in digging for diamonds, South Africa can be reached by him much more easily than Arizona, and in South Africa it is certain that diamonds have been found, however few and far between such lucky discoveries may have been.

The "patent places" in England are rapidly disappearing, and probably in another quarter of a century there will scarcely be one left of those good things which were secured to HORACE WALPOLE, by a thoughtful parent's care, to the extent of twenty thousand dollars a year, while still a minor. The clerkship of the Court of King's Bench, worth forty thousand dollars a year, lapsed lately by the death of Lord ELLENBOROUGH, who for about half a century had drawn that snug salary for doing nothing; and now an act has just been passed abolishing the immensely valuable office of Accountant-General of the Court of Chancery. This has long been held by a relative of the Duke of BEDFORD, and it need scarcely be said that "vested interests" have been religiously respected.

Berlin and New-York are a good deal more like each other than were Monmouth and Macedon. For example, of all European cities the death-rate of Berlin comes nearest to that of New-York. Then again, its streets seem to be in quite as bad condition as ours. To remedy this latter defect a sapient Berlin town-councilor lately proposed, as a correspondent puts it,

"A plan 'of his own invention,' by which the streets should be gradually, progressively and successively repaired, at the rate of so many thalers per prospective year, on a sort of upward-sliding scale. The scheme at its first blush found considerable support; but, upon being submitted to an analytical process, it was found that, taking the streets alphabetically and repairing them upon Herr——'s system, one hundred and seven years would elapse ere the last Z street could be submitted to the proposed improvements, by which time it was felt to be probable that the A-street—not to mention any other of the earlier letters of the alphabet—would prove to be somewhat out of order. The scheme, in so many respects so eminently in keeping with the spirit of enterprise animating our Town Council, was, in consequence of this untimely analysis, definitely abandoned, and the subject of comprehensive street-repair was shelved for the nonce."

The plan that originated in the cautious brain of the Berlin councilor, appears to be tolerably like that which without any deliberate invention at all, has been for some time the favorite one in New-York.

Senator Robertson.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

To guard against possible misapprehension in reference to Senator Robertson, permit me to say that Gen. Dix's nomination meets with that gentleman's hearty approval, and will receive his cordial support. I met Senator Robertson at Albany on Thursday. But for the general belief that Gen. Dix would not accept the nomination, Mr. Robertson's name would not have been presented to the Convention. I also conversed with Hon. John H. Ketchum, Senator Robertson's most confidential friend, who was equally well pleased with the nomination of Gen. Dix. The long and intimate personal and political friendship which has existed between Senator Robertson and myself enables me to say with undoubting confidence that no friend who consults his wishes will fail to support the Republican State and national ticket. The Times on the Cars.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

I have noticed (for some time back) in the Madison-avenue cars, a large demand for the NEW-YORK TIMES over the other New-York papers, and during the past week I kept an account of the different papers each day, and the following was the result, viz.:

Aug. 20	10	4	3	1	1
Aug. 21	7	3	4	1	..
Aug. 22	11	3	2	3	..
Aug. 23	10	6	3	1	..
Aug. 24	10	5	6	1	..

NEW-YORK, Monday, Aug. 26, 1872. J. A. S.

The Times in Jersey City.

A correspondent writes: "Much complaint is made here against the news-dealers for the want of a supply of the TIMES, as it is nearly an impossibility for the late business men to get hold of a copy. The news-dealers tell us that they increase their number every day, and then cannot supply the demand, while Heralds, Worlds and Suns can be had all day, until closing time in the evening."

The Apollo Hall Democracy.

Mr. Alexander V. Davidson, Secretary of the Executive Committee of the Apollo Hall Democracy, says that the report relating to the next meeting of the Committee in a morning paper yesterday, is a tissue of lies, in so far as it states that notice will be given only to O'Brien's friends, or that the meeting has been called to further the private ends of O'Brien. Notice has been regularly sent, and in good time, to every member of the Executive Committee. The Executive Committee numbers 216 members, ten from each Assembly district, and is the actual working part of the Reform Democracy machine. The meeting is a special one, and there is little doubt but that important business will be transacted.

THE STRAIGHT DEMOCRATS.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Aug. 26.—A number of straight-out Democrats met here at noon to-day in response to the following call:

BALTIMORE, Aug. 10, 1872.

SIR: DEAR SIR: The Executive Committee appointed by the Democrat National Conference held at the Metropolitan Hotel, Long Branch, N. J., June 20, 1872, having fulfilled their duties imposed on them by the Conference, are ready to make their report, and respectfully invite you to attend a meeting of the Executive Committee, at the Metropolitan Hotel, Long Branch, N. J., on Monday, Aug. 26, 1872, to hear the report of the Committee, and take such action as the report may require. You will please notice that this communication is strictly personal.

By order of the Executive Committee.
HENRY R. WILLIAMSON, Secretary.

The meeting was called to order by Henry Thompson, of Pennsylvania, who nominated J. R. Gilbert, of Kentucky, for Chairman, and was elected. Mr. Gilbert, upon taking the chair, made the following speech:

GENTLEMEN: I am deeply gratified at being permitted to meet with you again. We have come together as Democrats for the purpose of considering what is best for the protection and maintenance of those ideas and principles which have actuated our party in the past and which are yet fondly cherished by millions of true men throughout the land. We are met to consider measures and means for opposing and protesting against the action on the part of certain Democratic politicians throughout the country, who are attempting to sell and deliver the Democratic Party into the hands of its most violent and bitter enemy. We are met as men who are not willing to join hands with the enemy only for the purpose of dividing the spoils which may thus possibly be won. If, gentlemen, I had heretofore been an open advocate of the indorsement of Mr. Greeley by the Democracy, since his recent speech at Portland, Me., I confess that I should change. I read his words with shame and with surprise. It was the boldest bid for the purchase of the votes of honest men that any public character ever dared to make in the face of the world. He had before said that he still retained those Republican principles and was prepared to advocate the same policy of hatred that had always characterized him in the past, and yet he now says to the Democracy of the country—"vote for me—entertaining the principles that I do, pledged to the same policy as in the past, and I will give you the loaves and fishes." He proffers offices for our disgrace. It is an insult, gentlemen, to every man whose heart beats in sympathy with Democratic ideas and principles—a burning insult to every honest Democrat in the nation.

It behooves us to act! The Democratic Party is not dead, as those who would sell us to Radicalism would assume! It still lives, and will continue to live for the good of our land. The time will come when it will gain power and be able to protect and defend the Constitution, which is now, as it has always been, its platform. No honest man, gentlemen, can enter into this Liberal Dolly Varden combination and remain a Democrat. If gentlemen desire to enlist in the Radical ranks let them do so; but, if they would claim to be Democrats, they must spurn with contempt the bid of Mr. Greeley for our votes.

We are now to consider, gentlemen, measures for the maintenance of the national organization of the Democratic Party. Let every one lend his heartiest aid in the selection of good, true and tried Democrats to the National Convention which will soon meet in Louisville—a convention which will name as a candidate for the Presidency a man who will receive the votes of every Democrat in the country—who has not forfeited his self respect by selling himself for office to our enemy. [Great applause.]

The Committee which was appointed by the Conference that met here on the 20th day of June then submitted the following report; That after their appointment they attended the Baltimore Conventions. Notwithstanding the apparent unanimity of the Liberal Convention, it was evident that the Democrats present had no real heart in the part they were performing. All regarded the nomination of Horace Greeley, a life-long opponent and vilifier of the Democracy, as a farce and an attempt at fraud upon the honest masses of the party, instigated by the vain hope of securing political power. Indeed, life-long Democrats carefully kept away from the Convention, and few renowned and time-honored Democratic names appear upon its rolls. No omens of success attended the nominations; they were felt to be political suicide, and the Convention separated without enthusiasm, having nominated for Republican for President and Vice-President, and adopted a Republican platform. What a fate for the National Democratic Party. Your Committee also attended the Democratic Convention at the Maryland Institute, Baltimore, which refused to accept the nominations of Greeley and Brown, and protested against the action of the Ford's Theatre Convention as the dissolution of the Democratic Party. This Convention, although not large in numbers, was inspired by the true spirit, and amid the obloquy of office-seeking politicians it decided to keep aloft the Democratic flag and to preserve unbroken the Democratic Party organization. This organization has since called a Convention to meet at Louisville, Ky., Sept. 3, to nominate Democratic candidates for President and Vice-President.

Since the adjournment of the Baltimore Convention your Committee has carefully investigated the political situation and watched the progress of events. They are only confirmed in the opinion that the nomination of Greeley and Brown is political suicide. Hundreds of Democrats are bolting from Greeley, and declaring their intention of voting for Grant unless a Democratic candidate is presented. A Republican victory in North Carolina is the first fruits of the disastrous policy inaugurated at Baltimore, and the salvation of the Democratic Party; its only hope of success in the present, or, if defeated, of honor or even of existence in the future, depends upon bold and immediate action for the purpose of placing before the nation Democratic candidates and a Democratic platform; to receive the votes of honest Democrats, who will not sell themselves to Horace Greeley, Charles Sumner, John Cochrane, Reuben E. Fenton and Alexander McClure.

The path of duty and honor is the path of safety. By the nomination at Louisville of that patriotic Democrat, Charles O'Conor, the Democratic Party may yet be led to victory. What Democrat, what Republican even, will vote against Charles O'Conor in favor of Horace Greeley or Ulysses S. Grant.

Your Committee, therefore, recommend the passage of the accompanying resolutions:

Resolved, That all true Democrats be urged to continue to resist the attempts of time-serving, office-seeking politicians to sell the Democratic Party to Horace Greeley and his corrupt Republican followers, and that delegates from every Congressional district in the United States should be sent to the Regular Democratic Convention, at Louisville, on Sept. 3, 1872.

Resolved, That the Chairman be authorized to appoint a full Committee to attend the Louisville Convention in behalf of this Conference, with instructions to urge the nomination of Charles O'Conor as President of the United States.

Resolved, That we ask the co-operation of all good Democrats throughout the United States to support the nominations that will be made in Louisville on Sept. 3, 1872. That in so doing we but carry out the principles of Jefferson and Jackson, whose memory and good deeds are honored and revered by all. Therefore, be it

Resolved, That we combine all our strength in making the efforts for success of our candidates, knowing as we do that, at this crisis of our country's affairs, none but men of pure Democratic principles can save our country from the anarchy and disruption with which it is now threatened by two rival factions, whose only desire is to possess office. Under these circumstances, it behooves us, as good citizens, to lend ourselves to this cause, as did our forefathers when battling for freedom in 1776, when life, liberty and other sacrifices were made. The crisis of 1776 is similar to that of 1872, and the result to be obtained is the same.

(Signed,)
HENRY THOMPSON, of Pennsylvania.
HORACE BLACK, of Delaware.
RICHARD HENDERSON, of West Virginia.
WILSON PERRY, of New-Jersey.
J. R. GILBERT, of Kentucky.
WILSON M. CURTIS, of Ohio.
HENRY R. WILLIAMSON, of Maryland.

On motion the Committee's report and resolutions were unanimously adopted. On motion the Committees were then discharged from further duties, with a vote of thanks.

The Chairman then announced the following as the Committee to the Louisville Convention: Horace Black, of Delaware; Henry R. Williamson, Robert Preston and Edgar Gerold, of Maryland; Henry Thompson, John Applegate, of Pennsylvania; Richard Henderson, of West Virginia; Wilson Perry, of New-Jersey; J. R. Gilbert, of Kentucky; Rufus Rogers, Theobald Davies, of Ohio; Charles Martin, George Gulden and James O'Brien, of New-York.

On motion the meeting adjourned, subject to the call of the Chair.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

Results of the Two Conventions—Nomination of Candidates—Platforms Adopted.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Aug. 26.—The Republican State Convention this morning adopted a platform with additional planks, pledging the party that public schools and institutions shall not be closed for want of maintenance by the State; acknowledging the right of the Federal Government to interpose for the preservation of peace, and thanking the Government for what it has done in this State; asking the Executive clemency for ignorant and undesigning persons convicted under the Enforcement act; in favor of immigration, and for the establishment of factories for the development of the State, and pledging the party to treat all comers with consideration and justice. The only excitement during the morning session was caused by a fierce and specific attack by E. J. Mackey, upon the bolters' ticket and its supporters, which was vociferously applauded by the Convention. He was especially severe in his arraignment of Senator Sawyer and Attorney Corbin, whose whole career was scrutinized. The following is the electoral ticket of the regular Convention: S. A. Swails, colored; W. N. Taft, white; Henry Sparrick, white; T. J. Mackey, white; D. H. Chamberlain, white; William Gurney, white; W. B. Nash, colored.

The Convention adjourned, subject to the call of the Chairman.

The Bolters' Convention met and completed a ticket by nominating J. H. Hayne (colored) for Lieutenant-Governor, Macon B. Allen (colored) for Secretary of State, J. Scott Murray (white) for Comptroller, Gen. E. P. Garry (white) for State Treasurer; B. L. Roberts, (colored) Superintendent of Education.

A platform was adopted indorsing President Grant and the Philadelphia platform; denouncing the State Government as imbecile and corrupt; pledging the State to pay all honestly and legally contracted debts; promising an honest administration and a reduction of taxes; denouncing the pledges of the regular candidates as mere blinds for selfish ends, and declaring no law can protect the Treasury if the regular candidates be elected; denouncing the general license law, and the failure of the Administration of the State to educate the people.

After arranging for the organization of the party, the Convention adjourned.

MISSOURI.

Proceedings of the Indian Council at the Cheyenne Agency.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 26.—The Times, to-morrow, will publish a letter from the Indian Council at the Cheyenne Agency, which brings the proceedings down to the 13th inst. Live Wolf, the principal Chief of the Kiowas, made a speech, in which he said before any peace can be made with the Government the military must be removed from the country, Fort Sill abandoned, and the soldiers sent home. Raiding into Texas, he said, they would never be willing to renounce. The Gamparikes, Quatadas and guerilla bands of Mexicans make that country their raiding grounds, and the Kiowas will never give up their share of the spoils. The Council expected to adjourn the next day after the letter was written.

Strike in a Coal Mine.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 26.—The strike of the coal miners of St. Clair County, Illinois, which was supposed to have ended some days ago, took a fresh start today. At a meeting of miners, near Belleville today, it was decided by the sixteen Unions represented to hold out for four cents a bushel, the price demanded at the outset. This decision will seriously affect manufacturers and private consumers here, as St. Louis obtains much the largest amount she uses from the mines of St. Clair County.

THE WEATHER.

Synopsis and Probabilities.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 27—1 A. Meeting of the Tammany Hall General Committee.

The Tammany General Committee met at Tammany Hall last evening, John W. Chanler presiding. There was an unusually large attendance. Prominent among the persons assembled were Henry Genet, Gen. Spinola, Ex-Supervisor John Fox, Judge Coulter, Alderman Woltman, Augustus Schell, John Kelley, Edward Pium, Martin L. Keese, John Doland, Henry Oberle, and all of the gang, minus Tweed, Hall, Sweeny, and a few others. The meeting was held to issue a call for primary elections for delegates to the Democratic State Convention to be held Sept. 4, and to transact other business. The Chairman said that the call of the Committee was in reality a recommendation that the Democracy meet in their several Assembly districts in response to a call issued by the Democratic State Committee. On motion of Mr. John Kelley, it was Resolved, That we recommend to the several Assembly District Committees to meet in their several election districts in each of the Assembly districts, on Wednesday, Aug. 28, between 7½ and 10 o'clock P. M., to appoint three inspectors of election, who shall hold an election for one delegate in each of the election districts to meet in Assembly Convention, on Friday, the 30th instant, at 8 o'clock P. M., and from said Convention to elect one delegate and one alternate to represent each district at the State Convention, to meet at Syracuse on the 4th day of September next.

Resolved, That when the delegates are chosen, we recommend the Assembly Convention by which they were chosen to give said delegate a certificate signed by the Chairman and the Secretaries, together with the certificate of inspectors of election in such of the election districts that the member representing the district in the Assembly Convention was duly authorized to sit in said Assembly Convention for said election district.

Printed copies of the by-laws recently adopted were then distributed to the various members of the Committee.

Mr. Kelley moved that the roll be called, and that district delegations present a list of vacancies to be filled or substitutions to be made, and that the names of the candidates be referred to the Committee on Organization. It was found after roll-call that there were four places to fill. A recess of a half hour was then taken to allow the Committee on Organization to take action. The Committee reported on Wm. D. Lehrman and Henry Oberle to fill vacancies in the Fifth District in place of —— Kammerle and Louis Oberle, and Andrew Healy to fill a vacancy in the Ninth District, in place of James O'Neill, deceased. Mr. E. Plum, in behalf of a majority of the delegates of the Fifth District, presented a resolution asking for the removal of Warren C. Bennet and the substitution of Michael Norton. Mr. Bennet is charged in the resolution with repudiating the organization and its action, taking no part in its counsels, and allying himself with Apollo Hall. After some discussion it was resolved that Mr. Bennett's seat be declared vacant under the by-laws, and that the question of filling the vacancy be referred to the Committee on Organization. As Norton appeared to be the popular choice of the General Committee, he will probably be appointed. A war of words was then indulged in by a delegate with a huge shirt-collar, John Kelley and a number of other members relative to the form of the call or recommendation issued by the Committee. He was under the impression that there was a trick in it by which certain leaders would carry matters their own way. It was shown that it was drawn up to agree with the State Committee's call, and to avoid the difficulties which had several times attended the admission of Tammany Hall delegates to State Conventions. The delegate was charged that there was a design to create this difficulty in September. After this rather stormy episode the meeting adjourned.

INSPECTORS OF ELECTION.

Important Action of the Reform Association.

The Executive Committee of the Reform Association held a meeting at No. 2 Astor House, at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, at which they directed the Chairman to sign and forward forthwith the following letter:

REFORM ASSOCIATION, EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE,
NEW-YORK, Aug. 26, 1872.

Henry Smith, Esq., President of the Board of Police Commissioners:

SIR: Under the new Election law, the appointment of four inspectors and two poll clerks of election for each of the 518 election districts in this City, is given to your Board. To secure an honest election of these it is absolutely necessary that none but faithful and honorable citizens should be intrusted with such an important duty, as the very existence of our Government and these institutions depends upon the integrity and fidelity of the election officers.

Three years ago your Board appointed all the canvassers of the election, a large number of whom were Deputy Sheriffs and Police Officers, who, as appeared by sworn testimony, counted in candidates without even opening the ballots, admitting afterward that they had to obey orders.

If was well understood at that time, among many candidates for election, that unless their friends were appointed as canvassers, votes for them would not be counted, and they declined to go into the canvass at all; these facts are no doubt better known to you than they are to us.

This Association and the German Reform Association have enrolled upward of 55,000 voters, pledged to vote for honest, capable men for City officers, regardless of national and State issues. We protest against your Board appointing as inspectors of election any man holding office under the City, State or National Governments.

We propose to submit names of two good citizens, one a Republican and one a Democrat—1,036 names in all—that is two for each election district, and we request your Board to appoint them. We shall select from lists of the Mercantile Library Association, and bank clerks or other good citizens, (not office-holders,) all of whom shall also be approved of by the Committee of Seventy. After those two are appointed for each election district, they will have still four more to appoint for each election district.

We request your Board to signify to us through our Chairman whether, if we furnish you the names of two inspectors for each election district, one from each political party, and proper persons, you will appoint them.

JOHN FOLEY,
Chairman Executive Committee,
No. 2 Astor House.

Greeley's Organ and Mr. Blanton Duncan.

The following has been forwarded to the New-York Tribune, but will probably not be published in that journal:

LOUISVILLE, Aug. 23, 1872.

To the Editor of the New-York Tribune:

In reading a German paper today I find a quotation from your journal, in which you comment in strong terms upon the alleged action of the Grant Committees in distributing my circular address by tens of thousands for the purpose of injuring Mr. Greeley's prospects, and it is assumed, therefore, that I am in Gen. Grant's interest. I believe there is a notable precedent for such action.

Your New-York General Committee (of which Mr. Greeley, I think, was then Chairman) distributed hundreds of thousands of Wade Hampton's speech to injure Horatio Seymour. Oliver Cherlick expressed his great disgust to me at finding it in that way the first order given to a friend of his to whom he had just loaned money to start a printing-office. May I ask whether Gen. Hampton was at that time in collision with Gen. Grant and Mr. Greeley?

Now, I will propose a fair thing. I will distribute for the Greeley Committees all the documents they will send me, (especially Senator Sumner's letter and his Washington speech,) which attempt to prove that the people ought not to support Gen. Grant.

And I will distribute for the Grant Committee any documents proving the same relative to Mr. Greeley, provided that in each case the documents are attacks and not arguments for their own candidates.

And I will issue other documents to demonstrate beyond peradventure that both are right, and that our Louisville nominees are the only fit persons to be elected.

Surely that will be the fair thing, and so impartial that you cannot complain hereafter.

As you will both have greater facilities than I can command, and you will both be rendering great service to the people, I trust the documents will all be franked, and thus save me any postage.

Very respectfully,
BLANTON DUNCAN.

Greeley General Committee—Banner Raising Last Night—Arrangements for Primary Elections.

A Greeley and Brown banner was raised last evening opposite No. 814 Broadway, under the auspices of the Liberal Republican General Committee. After the outside ceremony had been completed the spectators adjourned to the large hall within, where a meeting was in progress under the presidency of Mr. Daniel D. Conover. Thos. E. Stewart was first introduced, and after a brief speech retired to make way for Rev. G. B. Ray, (colored,) to burden the audience with the latter's attitude of the Democratic Party, which, he said, having only dead issues to stand upon, had repented of its wrongs and gone over to Greeley. The speaker informed his auditors that he never read the TIMES, although he admitted a remarkable familiarity with the daily comments of the journal in question, the inconsistency which was readily appreciated by the audience. Mr. H. M. Parmalee followed with an account of the terrible fate in store for the Union in case of Grant's re-election. Gen. John Cochrane, who "hadn't come prepared to make a speech," wound up the evening with a speech, declaring the vote of the Democracy to be almost unanimous for Greeley, yet he desired every man to do his duty if he would avoid defeat for their party in November. The meeting was unusually demonstrative, and at times enthusiastic.

The Committee also decided on Friday evening next for the election of delegates for the Liberal Republican State Convention, which meets at Syracuse on Sept. 4.

Grant and Wilson Banner-Raising in Williamsburg.

Last night witnessed a grand rally of the Williamsburg Fourteenth Ward Grant and Wilson Club, which took place at the corner of Fourth and North Fifth-streets, ratifying the Philadelphia nominations. A Grant and Wilson Banner was raised.

The meeting was composed of a general gathering of the voters of the north side of Williamsburg, and what with banners, bon-fires, flags, fire-works, Chinese lanterns and the stirring speeches, great enthusiasm was witnessed. Considering that this ward has been a Democratic stronghold, the large meeting in attendance speaks volumes and indicates a decided change in favor of reform. At 8 o'clock the meeting was brought to order by the President, S. S. Maddox, who introduced Col. James Tanner, of Williamsburg.

He spoke of the Republican Party as being very proud of its candidates, and their history, and also the history of of its own career as a great and good party. In speaking of the misrule of the Democratic Party in years past he said: God save us from the rule of the Democratic Party, they ruled us long enough to run us into a bloody chasm, but which Gen. Grant was now fast closing up. When that chasm shall have been finally covered up, as it will be next November, the Democratic Party will be buried low down in it.

Col. Zunke, of Virginia, Col. Sparrow, of the Fifteenth Ward, and Mr. Fairchild, of Williamsburg, afterward addressed the meeting, which soon after dispersed.

The Ex-President of San Salvador.

Dr. Duenas, the late President of San Salvador, who recently arrived in New-York, being expelled from his native country, is lying dangerously ill at the Hotel Espanol, in Fourth-street. The distinguished exile is in an almost hopeless condition, and grave fears are entertained of the result. Dr. Duenas' family, consisting of his wife and five children, are sojourning with him. Two South American Indian nurses accompany the party, and attract great attention on the streets.

THE OUTLOOK.

Advices Received by the Republican National Committee.

Visitors and letters from all parts of the country to the Fifth-avenue Head-quarters convey the most encouraging tidings of Republican organization and the firm hold which the party maintains in the hearts of the masses. Signs of the division and disintegration of the Labor and Democratic and Democratic combination in many States are also indicated. The nearer the approach of the election the more nauseating becomes the "Greeley pill" which Tammany Hall would force upon the nations Democracy. These excerpts from letters illustrate the political sentiment in many States of the Union:

A letter from Missouri, from a prominent Republican there, says:

"The Democrats in our county (Johnson County) had their Convention here two weeks ago, and they not only booted our Liberal friends out of the Convention but cursed them besides, and the Liberals in consequence are losing faith in the professions of the Democrats. The news from North Carolina make long faces among the Greeleyites.

The ball has commenced rolling here and is gaining in strength and size every day, and I really think the State will give a handsome majority for Grant. The Louisville Convention has done for us good, and there are many Democrats among us who will vote for its nominee in preference to Greeley. I know personally fifty Democrats who will vote for its nominee, and who will not vote for Greeley under any circumstances.

It is my opinion that not one of any ten Liberal Republicans of two years ago who voted for Grata Brown for Governor will vote for him the present day. All the so-called 'Liberal' Republicans of two years ago are now Grant men. They have become disgusted with the treachery of their leaders, and are determined to be misled no longer. Especially are they disgusted with the administration of Grata Brown as Governor—at his only dallying with the late rebel element. The Knklux have not been so bold for years as they are now. What they would do if Greeley and Brown were elected, heaven knows."

Another letter from Missouri says:

"The Republicans in this part of Missouri (near St. Louis) are very hopeful. The Germans are all going for Grant with very few exceptions. In one large brewery here there are thirty-two Germans employed, and all but five are going to vote the Republican ticket. To some men two years ago voted the Liberal ticket. As to Gratz Brown being able to give aid to the Greeley ticket, it is a great blunder. The Liberals here are disgusted with him, and many Democrats alike detest him. * * * I know of several Democrats who say they will not vote for Greeley under any circumstances, but will vote for the Louisville nominee should there be one."

H. J. C., Columbus, Ohio, writes:

"The prospects here are brightening every day. Enthusiasm among the Republicans is wide-spread, and it has not been equaled since the war, especially among the young men. The Tanners' Club, a Grant organization here, now numbers 1,400 young men, many of whom having lately been Democrats. Four years ago this Association numbered only 40. * * * The man is a fool who doubts which way this State will go in November."

C. H. H., Chicago, Ill., writes:

"Greeley stock is on the decline. The enthusiastic blowing of the Liberals is heard no longer, and they wear long faces. * * * We shall carry the State by 40,000. Every day the prospects improve for Grant. Our moneyed men are uniformly for Grant, and, of course, they will have great weight in the canvass."

T. W. O., Jacksonville, Fla., writes, the 17th:

"The Conventions are over, and the tickets are in the field. The Republican ticket is a good and strong one. The Democrats nominated a straddle-out rebel ticket, entirely ignoring the 'Liberals.' All the Liberals but about sixteen bolted and have come back to us. This clique of sixteen went with the Democrats on unconditional surrender. * * * The prospects throughout the State are very encouraging."

E. E. C., Plattsmouth, Nebraska, writes:

"The campaign has been fairly opened in the eastern and central portions of our State, and bids fair to be lively. But the outlook is brightening every day, and I think we have a splendid show of success in this State. The Germans here are coming over to Grant and Wilson by dozens."

C. C., a late New-Hampshire Greeley man, writes:

"I cannot shut my eyes any longer to the inconsistency of the men under whose lead I looked for reform. Greeley is not the man that I hoped he was, nor is he acting as I expected. Many men are with me in disappointments. We feel that we had 'better bide the ills we have than flee to those we know not of.'"

O. C. M., another New-Hampshire man, writes:

"You need not be anxious about New-Hampshire. We shall carry the State high and dry. The last Greeley Republican has come out—now it is our turn to show ourselves. We shall show our hand at the proper moment."

P. S., Montgomery, Ala., writes:

"Our Republican Convention was composed of native and tried Union men, and was most harmonious. The nominations give the utmost satisfaction, and with a good State Committee we can carry everything before us in November."

G. H. D. writes from New-Jersey:

"The colored vote here is a unit for Grant. Hardly fifty colored votes in the State will be given for Greeley. Our last State election gave 5,000 Democratic majority. I look for a large reduction. The defections from the Republicans are at an end, and we have among us many Democrats who will not vote for Greeley under any circumstances. The Louisville Convention is their only hope they say."

J. H. W. sends the following from Maine:

"I have been over a great part of the State, and I find an intense feeling here for Grant, and unbounded enthusiasm for the Republican ticket of September. Now, mark my words. Instead of the majority of March being reduced by the unholy alliance, I am satisfied that it will be increased over last year. * * * The Democrats do not feel very proud at the figure H. G. cut during his visit to this town. [Portland.] The impression he made here was not a benefit to his cause."

J. H. G. writes from Richmond, Va.:

"Under proper exertions and judicious management Virginia can be carried for Grant. We intend to carry on a spirited and aggressive canvass, and our friends are growing daily more hopeful of the result in the State in November."

Advices from Vermont all indicate a handsome Republican majority in the election to come off the 3d of next month. Vermont letters are all in an encouraging vein, and no doubt is expressed of our success there.

A letter from North Carolina says:

"The late election has convinced me that the secret Kuklux organization still lives here. The result in the strongest Democratic localities shows this. They are thoroughly organized, and the machinery of the order is energetically used. But we shall carry the State for Grant in November without a doubt. * * * The Louisville Convention is looked on with favor by many Democrats here, who say they will vote for its candidate."

G. C. C. writes from Columbia, S. C., the 18th:

"I tell you the Kuklux are as venomous today as they ever were, and should Mr. Greeley be elected no Northern man can live here without insult and injury. I hope that the South will not be forgotten in the speeches at the North, and that the truth may be told of this infernal organization."

C. H. R. writes from San Francisco, Cal., as follows:

"I have been up to Oregon, which State is all right for Grant. Here in California the Republicans are hopeful, and are ready and preparing to do hard work to carry the State. I am sure the Pacific Coast will give a munch ring in November."

From Mississippi the advices are encouraging. The Democrats and Liberals have a strong ticket in nomination, but there is no doubt but that the State will be carried for Grant in November.

From Texas, Georgia and Kentucky, letters received show a wide-spread interest in those States in the work of the Louisville Convention. Especially in Kentucky and Georgia is this feeling prevalent, and to some extent in Virginia. Should that Convention put in nomination a good-out Democrat, the advices are that he will receive a great many votes of Democrats who will not vote for Greeley.

From Indiana, the Committee are in receipt of many letters, all hopeful of the result in October, and the advices from that State say the State is sure to go Republican.

Some of the Democratic papers have asserted that Gen. Sickles has gone to Spain to escape making a decided expression of opinion, or to avoid taking an active part in the Presidential campaign. The following letter, written from Luenon, France, under the date of July 30, explains his absence and contains some peculiar ideas about the Greeley-Democratic medicine:

"My throat troubles me a good deal," he says, "and I am advised to try the famous waters of these Springs for the restoration of my voice, which has been seriously affected. The doctor says I must gargle, bathe, and drink warm sulphur water three weeks. The said water tastes as if it run through an aqueduct flavored with rotten eggs. Talk of French cooking, and then think of a man who has to take such doses as the waters of Luenon! But, then, this is good living compared with the doses the Democrats swallowed when they nominated Greeley and Brown. Poor fellows! they could not afford to be particular; but, then, misfortune had already made them familiar with many humiliations!"

Gov. Geary, of Pennsylvania, called at head-quarters yesterday. He expressed great confidence in the certainty of Republican success in Pennsylvania in October and November. Judge Settle, of North Carolina, will take part in the canvass in Maine. Hon. W. G. Chandler, Secretary of the National Committee, and Col. L. E. Dudley, of the Veterans' Committee, were both at their posts yesterday.

Among the visitors at head-quarters were Hon. James Speed, W. H. Johnson, Albany, N. Y.; Rev. Jno. D. Bagwell, New-Jersey; Hon. Harry C. Dibble, Louisiana, and W. H. Gleason, Chairmain of the State Central Committee of Florida. The latter gentleman speaks very encouragingly of Republican prospects in his State.

Connolly's Whereabouts.

A morning paper, on Friday, asserted that Mr. Connolly, the fugitive Ex-Controller, was within fifty miles of the City, and that he has been seen recently by friends riding in his carriage in the neighborhood of Westchester County. The same journal alleged that the Sheriff's office was perfectly cognisant of Mr Connolly's locale, but that for reasons of the Sheriff's own the matter was kept a profound secret.

Both Mr. Brennan and Under-Sheriff Joel Stevens indignantly deny the charge of falsehood preferred so recklessly against them, and pledge their word that Mr. Connolly is without the State to the best of their knowledge and belief. The other report lately circulated by an evening paper to the effect that Mr. Judson C. Jarvis, the Order of Arrest Clerk, had in his possession a writ for one of the members of the late Ring, is denied as an idle attempt to create a political sensation. No content member of the Ring remains to be arrested.

"KING CARROT" AT THE GRAND OPERA-HOUSE.

The hour at which the representation of "King Carrot" at the Grand Opera-house terminated last night, or, more properly speaking, this morning, prevents so careful a review of the play as its qualities call for. The imperfections of a first performance would, in any case, have made a satisfying summary of the spectacular merits of the entertainment—its chief merits, it will be understood—almost impossible. A hurried review of the story of the piece and of the points illustrated with most felicity is, for these reasons, all that can be attempted. A very numerous audience witnessed the representation, and its tendency to applaud—a very remarkable tendency when the intense heat of the auditorium and the length of the rehearsal are taken into account—found frequent opportunities for gratification. To the durable success of "King Carrot" we cannot, under the impression of yesterday's incidents, point with certainty. But it may be said from the outset that at many stages of the evening great delight was manifested at the action of the piece, at its recital and at the special beauties of portions of its stage costume.

The story of "King Carrot" runs thus: Frydolin, Sovereign of Krokodyne, is so deeply involved in financial difficulties that he is determined to wed the Princess Cunegonde, whom he has not even seen, with a view to retrieving his fortunes. The necessary for the marriage is, however, removed by the appearance of Robin Luron, a gemma who tempts him to part with the armor of his ancestors—much as Charles Surface is induced to do with his pictures in "The School for Scandal"—in consideration of the money the Sovereign requires. Fridolin, though released from need, meets Cunegonde and becomes enamored of her. The nuptials are to occur without delay. Now it happens that Frydolin has incurred the hostility of Cologuinte, an aged sorceress, who, for some misdeed or other, has been in exile from fairy-land until the period now dealt with. Though an enemy of Cologuinte, from whose spells he frees Rosee du Soir, a beautiful maiden whom the witch has stolen, and on the proceeds of whose labors she has subsisted since the day of her banishment, Robin, desirous of teaching Fridolin the art of governing well, conspires with the sorceress to dethrone him. This is easily accomplished by the union of the two gents. Cologuinte, potent anew, selects for her instrument King Carrot, a horrible gnome of the vegetable kingdom, and, while causing all the women at court to fall in love with her protégé, she transfers all his disagreeable traits to Fridolin, whom a revolution soon unseats. A subsequent act finds Fridolin wandering the world over. Happily, he is still under the protection of Robin, who only lent himself—and partially at that—to Cologuinte's plans, with the intention of chastening the young ruler by misfortune. After consultation with an aged astrologer, who, after being torn piecemeal in full view of the audience, proves to be a youthful magician of the first water, the fugitive learns that the single talisman by which King Carrot is to be annihilated is the ring of King Solomon, last heard of in Pompeii previous to the eruption of Vesuvius. The astrologer's gift of a magic lamp transports the party to the distant city, and restores it to the condition of splendor and teeming activity in which it existed previous to the outbreak of the volcano. Fridolin secures the ring and returns homeward to test its might. He and his companions, cleverly disguised, appear at court. King Carrot is discovered in the enjoyment of all Fridolin's privileges, and in possession of the affection of Cunegonde. This perfidious creature is advised by Cologuinte that Fridolin has a talisman, the influence of which King Carrot cannot withstand. When Fridolin reveals himself to her, she feigns a passion she has never experienced, and, by stratagem, seizes the ring. The jewel is at once turned against Fridolin, and the legitimate Sovereign of Krokodyne is once more driven forth. Vice, there is scarcely any occasion to say, is not intended to triumph more frequently in fairy spectacles than in melo-drama. The royal wanderer seeks out the kingdom of insects and enters into an alliance against Cologuinte with the Queen of the Bees. The incidents following acquaint us with the fact that the sorceress has mysteriously disappeared and that King Carrot is, literally, rotting after the fashion of ordinary leguminous products. His subjects tire of him and a revolt is imminent. It occurs and King Carrot, terrified, surrenders without striking a blow. A few seconds before his overthrow, Cologuinte appears and warns him that he is still potent so long as a tuft on his head, which no human hand can remove, is untouched. Unluckily, however, a monkey lights upon the tuft, and the rule of the vegetable ends. Fridolin regains the sceptre, and it may be foreseen that his Queen will be pretty Rosée du Soir, who, ever since Robin has released her from duress, has

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

At the Exchange yesterday, Monday, Aug. 26, James M. Miller sold, by order of the Supreme Court, under the direction of Richard C. Beamish, Esq., referee, the three-story and basement brown-stone house and lot situate on the south side of Eightieth-street, 275.10 feet west of Lexington-avenue, 18.4 by 102.2, to the plaintiff, Geo. W. McCullum, for $1,800 over and above a mortgage of $8,800. Total, $10,600. No other business was transacted at the Exchange. There was, however, a very goodly number of persons in the room, among whom we noticed many of the old habitues of the place, who had returned from their Summer rustications and tours refreshed and invigorated, and ready to take part in the coming Autumn real estate campaign. The most of them expressed themselves as having confidence in the market, and they expect values to advance materially.

The following real estate and other property is advertised to be sold at public auction today, Aug. 27, at the Exchange:

By A. J. Bleecker, Son & Co., by order of the Supreme Court, under the direction of Philo T. Ruggles, Esq., referee, at the office of the Staten Island Railroad and Ferry Company, Vanderbilt Landing, Staten Island, all the property, real and personal, belonging to the said Company, comprising the Staten Island Railway and its equipments and other appurtenances, together with the steam-boats, docks, piers and landings of the Staten Island Ferry.

By James M. Miller, at 12 M., on the premises, at Tarrytown, Westchester County, N. Y., eighty plots of land, located on Union-avenue, Chateau Terrace, Hillside, Mott and Archer avenues, the same being part of the Mott and Archer farms. The property is within forty-five minutes of New-York and Boston Railroad Depots, at Tarrytown, located on high ground, and commands a fine view of the Hudson River.

TWENTY PER CENT. INVESTMENT.

THE AMERICAN BRIDGE COMPANY, OF CHICAGO, ILL.

L. B. BOOMER, of Chicago, President. (ORGANIZED AUG. 1, 1870.)

AUTHORIZED CAPITAL STOCK, $1,000,000

The whole amount of the authorized Capital Stock of this Company not having been issued, the balance thereof will be issued to subscribers at par, payments for same to be made in four installments of 25 per cent. each, viz.:

25 PER CENT. JULY 15, 1872.
25 PER CENT. AUG. 1, 1872.
25 PER CENT. SEPT. 1, 1872.
25 PER CENT. OCT. 1, 1872.

The Subscription Books now open at the office of the undersigned will be closed as soon as the new stock is fully subscribed. All past due installments must be paid with interest at time of subscription.

The total amount of stock issued at this time is $414,700, and on this basis the Company shows a present surplus of $136,280 97, and is now doing a flourishing business. One thousand men are constantly employed in their extensive works, and they now have on hand $1,250,000 of work for various railroads in the United States, among which may be mentioned the

CHICAGO, R. I. & PACIFIC,
CHICAGO & NORTH-WESTERN,
MICHIGAN CENTRAL,
MISSOURI PACIFIC,
ATLANTIC & PACIFIC, &c.

and the Company is now offered work to the amount of over $6,000,000, including some of the largest bridges ever built in this country; to accept of which, and further business, necessitates a larger working capital, as immense amounts of material have to be kept constantly on hand, and the Company are frequently obliged to receive, in part payment for their work, railroad and other bonds, which are perfectly good securities, but not always immediately marketable.

A point of incidental but great importance to those seeking security is the fact that the Company own thirty acres of land in Chicago, which leading real estate dealers say will be worth, in six years, at least $1,000,000 an amount equal to the whole proposed capital.

The career of the American Bridge Company, though brief, has already fully demonstrated the profitableness of the enterprise. The Company has constructed since its organization, and up to the 31st of December, 1871, a total of 38,137 feet of bridges, 18 turning tables, and 18 iron roads, and pneumatic and screw pile substructures, costing $3,400,000, and have facilities for the construction of pneumatic piles unsurpassed by any Company in the country, and a capacity for the construction of at least 150 feet of bridges for every working day in the year.

The Iron Railroad and Highway Bridge at Leavenworth, of three spans of 340 feet each, and the Union Pacific bridge across the Missouri River, of eleven spans of 250 feet each, were constructed by this Company.

The net profit arising from this business, as shown by the books of the Company was to the 31st of March, 1872, was the sum of $373,482 14, or at the rate of $224,089 28 per annum, being over 50 per cent. upon the capital stock then outstanding. With the proposed new structures, machinery, &c., the Company will have much greater capacity, and the proceeds of the increased issue of stock will enable them to buy material for cash, thereby making a saving of from $50,000 to $75,000 per year.

The Company can undoubtedly, on above basis, make dividends of from 20 to 25 per cent. per annum on the full amount of capital, $1,000,000, with a fair prospect of considerable increase.

The undersigned are connected to give to those inquiring the fullest details and entire satisfaction regarding the reliability of the Company's statements, and the unquestioned integrity and ability of its officers.

We confidently commend to capitalists the above, as an investment worthy their attention.

EXTENSION RAILWAY

First Mortgage 7 Per Cent. Convertible

GOLD BONDS,

AT 90 AND INTEREST,

Issued by the Indianapolis, Bloomington and Western Railway to aid in building its EXTENSION line West, in a direct line from Champaign (185 miles) to the Mississippi River at Keokuk, and a branch from White Heath (33 miles) to Decatur, all in the State of Illinois. The bonds are secured by a first and only mortgage on the EXTENSION, now being rapidly constructed in the most thorough manner by able and experienced contractors who represent a capital of several millions of dollars, which insures the last rail being laid at an early date. About 60 miles are already finished and 110 miles graded; the whole line, 218 miles, will be completed early in 1873. We have been connected and entirely familiar with the I., B. & W. Railway from its early organization. It was completed in the Autumn of 1870, and has developed rapidly into a SUCCESSFUL AND WEALTHY CORPORATION, having a large revenue from its largely increasing business. With the EXTENSION it will be one corporation, with 490 miles of road, located in a commanding position in the heart of the best portion of the country. The counties on the line of the EXTENSION in 1870 had a population of 242,330; valuation of real and personal estate, $181,008,000; bushels of grain raised, 27,000,000; value of farm products, $25,570,000, and live stock, $18,349,000; to which may safely be added 15 per cent. to represent the present population and value. THE COUNTIES ON THE OLD LINE AND THE EXTENSION TOGETHER CONTAIN A POPULATION OF NEARLY THREE-QUARTERS OF A MILLION, AND A PROPERTY VALUATION EXCEEDING $400,000,000.

From these statistics it will be readily seen that the EXTENSION will have a Local Business that will make it a complete success. In addition to this it will have the entire Through Traffic of the Missouri, Iowa, and Nebraska Road, connecting with it on the Mississippi River, and extending West to the Missouri, 300 miles, where it connects with the Midland Pacific in Nebraska. These two corporations, and also the Peoria and Rock Island (91 miles,) and the Davenport and St. Paul (300 miles,) although separate corporations, ARE CONTROLLED IN THE INTEREST OF THE INDIANAPOLIS, BLOOMINGTON AND WESTERN RAILWAY, and, practically, will be a united line of more than 1,200 miles, the through business of which will pass over the I., B. & W. This is an East and West trunk route and has no parallel competing line. The Eastern connections at Indianapolis are the Pennsylvania Central, Baltimore and Ohio, Bellefontaine, Lake Shore, and New-York Central, and other roads centering at this point. From the Sea-board to the West and North-west distances are materially reduced via this system of roads; so much so that it cannot fail to be the popular line for travel and business. Liberal subscriptions to the stock were made by towns and counties on the line of the EXTENSION, and the remainder has been taken by experienced railroad men and Eastern capitalists.

These facts cannot fail to make the bonds, which will be issued only on completed road, take high rank among the best railway securities.

The bonds are $1,000 each, convertible into stock at par, at the option of the holder, and may be registered free of charge.

Coupons, payable January and July 1, free of tax. The bonds may now be had from banks and bankers throughout the country.

We offer them at present at 90 and interest, and recommend them strongly to our friends and investors as one of the safest and most desirable securities on the market.

Bonds delivered free of express charges. Maps, pamphlets and circulars furnished on application.

THE CHICAGO AND CANADA SOUTHERN

First Mortgage Sinking Fund 30 Years

SEVEN PER CENT. GOLD BONDS

Interest Payable April and October at the Union Trust Company,

AT 90 AND ACCRUED INTEREST.

This road is the Western link in the new AIR LINE from BUFFALO to CHICAGO and runs from the Detroit River to Chicago in nearly a straight line.

The road is a part of the same line as the Canada Southern and is being built by the same men, viz.: Milton Courtright, John F. Tracy, David Dows, Wm. L. Scott, Henry Farnam, R. A. Forsyth, Jno. M. Burke, M. L. Sykes, Jr., all Directors either in the Chicago and North-west or the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific; George Opdyke, of the Midland Road; Sidney Dillon, Daniel Drew, John Ross, David Stewart, Samuel J. Tilden, Kenyon Cox, and other prominent railroad men.

The Road, like the Canada Southern, will have steel rails (60 pounds to the yard) throughout; is practically straight and level; much shorter, and can be run with greater speed and safety than any other road connecting with Buffalo and Chicago.

Twenty-five miles are finished and running; seventy-five miles more are so far advanced as to be finished by Jan. 1; and the entire road will be completed during the ensuing year. Steel rails and ties for one-half the entire road have already been purchased.

The builders of the road control enough of its Chicago feeders to obtain for it a profitable business from the start, having projected the line to accommodate existing business, and having seen the necessity for another trunk line between Chicago and the Atlantic sea-board, located expressly with the view of obtaining the cheapest transportation practicable.

The branch lines will make the shortest connections between Chicago and Toledo, and Chicago and Detroit, as well as between all these points and Buffalo.

The Canada Southern Bonds, in every particular like these, were eagerly taken, the last of them several weeks ago, by the best class of investors, and were on the market a shorter time than any other railroad loan of like amount for years past.

The proceeds of these bonds will complete the entire line, and we recommend them with the same confidence as we did the Canada Southern, and regard them as in every way a choice security.

COLORED MASS-MEETING

Grand Demonstration of Twentieth Ward Associations.

Three Thousand Men Declare for Grant—Spirited Addresses by H. H. Garnett, W. F. Butler, George Francis, Samuel Clay and Others.

Those Democrats who have been boasting that the colored men of the City are going over to that party, who are their political enemies now as much as during the rebellion, should have witnessed the wonderful enthusiasm and the unanimous loyalty to Grant and Wilson and the Republican Party which was displayed at the mass-meeting in Republican Hall last evening. The meeting was called by the Twentieth Ward Colored Republican Association, for the purpose of adding their voices to the Republican Party and its candidates. The spacious hall at the corner of Broadway and Twenty-third-street, used as the headquarters of the General Committee was not large enough. It was packed in the doorways, windows, and stairways, aisles, and many were unable to obtain entrance. At least 2,000 persons were in the hall, 1,000 more outside and in the ante-rooms, and the demonstration was an unqualified success as regards numbers, unanimity of expression, and unbounded enthusiasm.

As early as 7 o'clock in the evening the hall was nearly filled by an intelligent audience, among whom many ladies and white people were noticed. At about 8 o'clock the Fourteenth Ward Colored Grant and Wilson Campaign Club, numbering 65 members, arrived in a body, headed by a band of music. Soon after the Eighth Ward Unity Club, numbering 800 members, marched into the already crowded hall, and managed in some mysterious manner to find standing room somewhere. Their banner bore the following mottoes: "We are as true as steel. We remember our enemies and do not forget our friends." "We propose to fight it out on this line if it takes all Summer." "Let us have peace." Among other colored clubs present were the Fifteenth Assembly District Campaign Club, 65 members; the Eighth Ward George W. Francis Club, 50 members; Twentieth Ward Grant and Wilson Club, 359 members.

At 8:20 Mr. David R. Johnson, of the Eighth Ward Unity Club, called the meeting to order, and the following officers were nominated and enthusiastically elected:

President—James G. Frishie.

Vice-Presidents—David R. Johnson, Elias B. Conover, John J. Freeman, T. S. W. Titus, Capt. Andrew Brown, Geo. W. Myers, Geo. W. Francis, Wm. Freeman.

Secretaries—Samuel W. Clay, Samuel M. Blake, Wm. Widgeons, Alexander Powell, Andrew Keeland, George Washington, James L. Johnson.

Among those on the platform were also the following: Rev. Henry Richland Garnett, Hon. John H. Wales, William H. Johnson, of Albany, Chairman of the Colored State Central Committee; George W. Francis, Samuel Clay, of the General Committee, and the Presidents of various colored campaign clubs.

Rev. Henry Richland Garnett, who was received with enthusiastic cheers, congratulated the Chairman and gentlemen present on the large meeting of the colored citizens of New-York which he had been called on to address. They had now entered upon the most exciting political campaign in the history of the United States. For the first time in their history men would go to the polls and cast their votes for President and Vice-President, without distinction of race or color. Two parties claimed their suffrages—the Democratic and the Republican. The Democratic party was well known in the history of the world and in the history of this country for making high and bold professions to liberty and equality; but it was also well known as being the party for doing nothing. It had always been the bulwark of slavery and injustice. Even the first great apostle of American Democracy lived and died a slaveholder. If slavery wanted a defender when it was yet in its infancy, and when a strong arm might have crushed the hideous monster that defence was supplied by the Democracy. Democracy had driven the country to ruin and despotism, and eventually hurled the country into a civil war, looking on quietly while brother took a brother's blood. [Groans.] It was only when Abraham Lincoln [cheers] was called into the Presidential chair that the foul spirits conjured up by the Democratic Party were banished. James Buchanan [hisses] was President at the breaking out of the war, and he was the last Democratic President of the United States. [Cheers.] Going in with Thos. Jefferson and coming out with James Buchanan was like going in at the big end of the cow's horn and coming out at the small end. [Laughter.] One of the minions of the Democracy—a Supreme Court Judge—had decided that it was Republican, Democratic and constitutional to buy and whip slaves, and it was the same Judge, Roger B. Taney, who said the black man had no rights the white man was bound to respect. [Hisses.] A particular friend of his remonstrated with the Judge on such an unjust decision, when the Judge replied, "I could not help it. I did not want to do it, but my party compelled me, and I had to do it." This was the party that now asked the black man, through such men as Greeley and Brown—[hisses]—to vote for them. They were told to throw out their nets and catch as many fish as they could, and especially the black ones. Now he was very happy to say that they had thrown out their bait, but never a one could they get from a black fish. [Laughter.] Sumner was next sent to coax the black man, but he found he could do no more than Greeley, and he might tell them that if Sumner could not convert the colored people, they would not believe one come back from the dead. Then came James R. Doolittle, the man who had said that the first duty of the Democratic Party was to overthrow "nigger supremacy." Now, what was "nigger supremacy" in this country? They had four hundred negroes in offices, one hundred to every million in the country, and those grand offices consisted of rolling boxes in the Custom-houses and running with bales of papers in the Post-offices. They had a colored Minister at Liberia and another at Hayti—but they were sent there because a white man could not live there. And this was the "supremacy" Mr. Doolittle said should be put down. Was not that a magnanimous party, and ought not Horace Greeley, with such a crowd around him, be placed in the Presidential chair? [Hisses.] And yet they call upon you—you who bear on your bodies the scars and wounds received from rebel bayonets and rifles, to reinstate the party who caused those wounds. Will you do it? [Cries of "Never, never."] He had himself been insulted and beaten and driven ever since he was sixteen years old, but now that he enjoyed the blessings of liberty he was anxious to see how his brethren, who had suffered and bled as he had, would vote. [Cries of "Grant and Wilson." If a black man could be found mad enough to vote for Horace Greeley, let him go to his grave "unwept, unhonored, and unsung." The man ought to be a slave who would vote for chains and manacles. But what had the Republican Party done? They found the country in the hands of rebels, and the President a willing tool in the hands of traitors. They restored peace, they took the black man and set him free, [enthusiastic cheering,] and then placed in his hand a ballot, so that he might choose his rulers. They amnestied a hundred and fifty thousand rebels, and removed their political disabilities, even although they knew many of those votes would be turned against their own party. He knew he spoke truthfully of his colored fellow-citizens when he said they could not target the party which had done so much for them. They would vote for that banner inscribed with the names of Grant and Wilson, [enthusiastic cheering, again and again repeated,] and for another, bearing the name of John A. Dix, who would be next Governor of New-York State. [Cheers.] It would be with Greeley as it was with a horse at the Derby races. An Irishman bet on a horse named Botherum, because he had an Irish name. Now Botherum came in last of all the others, but the Irishman threw up his hat and shouted, "Hooran! Look how he drives them all before him!" [Laughter.] So it would be with Greeley when he came in away behind the other candidates—his supporters would cry, "Look how he drives them all before him!" In conclusion, he urged them to be steadfast and unwavering in their allegiance to their best friends, the Republican Party.

At the conclusion of the reverend gentleman's speech three cheers were called for and given with a will.

The following resolutions were read and carried in the affirmative by a deafening "aye:"

Whereas, We, the colored voters of the Twentieth Ward, deem it a duty to our brethren of this our common country, to so express our sentiments that they may know our position in this most momentous campaign in the history of the country, therefore, resolved that in view of the relation we hold as American citizens whose liberties are not so fully assured as to allow us in any way to relax our efforts for the success of the Republican Party, that we do heartily endorse the nomination of U. S. Grant for President, and Henry Wilson for Vice-President.

Resolved, That in the election recently held in North Carolina we find great cause for congratulation in that they have elected Caldwell as Governor by 2,000 or 3,000 majority, notwithstanding the almost superhuman efforts of the so-called Liberal Republicans, aided by our most inveterate enemies, the Democratic Party.

Resolved, That we do ratify the nomination made at Philadelphia, and earnestly implore our brethren North and south to give it their undivided support, as upon the success of said ticket depends our salvation politically.

Resolved, That we deplore the action of some of our race in espousing the cause of our enemies and seeking to draw aside others from the broad road of equal and exact justice as the four millions country, which at one time was their only friend. The great point of success in the history of Charles Sumner, the greatest of living statesmen, is now unfortunately, has become an apostate to the faith of the Republican Party, and thus shows the line where we part company, namely as we love him.

Resolved, That in Horace G. Grant we recognize the unstinted, able and unflagging, true and steadfast friend of freedom's rights, and in Henry Wilson the inflexible, unwavering statesman, as like the dread, but ever unyielding Defender of our rights; and as such we pledge to them our hearty and undivided support for the positions for which they are named by a loyal people, and shall use all our efforts to make it a success.

Ancient Sly, a hearty unity the nomination made at Utica of that sterling patriot, whose words are rendered immortal in history—to wit: "If any man attempts to pull down the American flag shoot him on the spot."—Major-Gen. Dix for Governor, and also that justice whose devotion to the cause of liberty and justice hath caused him the loss of a leg, J. C. Robinson, for Lieutenant-Governor, and we will also make use of all our efforts to make it a success.

Hon. John H. White, of the Eleventh Assembly District, was the next speaker. After some introductory remarks he said:

Since I have been a resident of New-York I have had the position several times of inspector of election, and I can recollect, years ago, that occasionally there would be a black man present at his ballot. And I can recollect the timid way in which he would approach the inspectors, as if he was doing something he had no right to do. There was a property qualification then, and he hardly ever offered his vote but there would be some beetle-browed, drunken inspector to challenge it. But all that is over now. There will be no more riots in New-York; no more burning of asylums. No; those very men are now on their bended knees praying for the negro vote. [Cheers and laughter.] After again referring to the corruption and the action of the Democracy of that year, Mr. White spoke of the necessity of preserving the purity of the elective franchise, and then continued: If we all have the elective franchise and a pure ballot, the next question is, how are you going to exercise it next November? [Cries of "Grant, Grant."] What is this Liberal Republican Party? Why you all know that it had its outlook, its starting-point, in dissatisfied, sorehead Republicans. It is made up of disappointed politicians, in the main, though some good men have gone into it. Another branch of the Liberal Republican Party is the Democratic Party. It is claimed that they have all reformed, but is there any one in the country who believes such a thing? At the same time, I undertake to say that every level-headed Democrat in existence will go for Grant. [Cheers, while the Tammany Democrats, who all steal when they get a chance, will go on the other line. [Laughter and cheers.] It is amusing to hear some of these fellows objections to the Republican Party. One man told me that he could not vote for Grant because he didn't like Tom Murphy—about as potent an objection as one can hear now. Mr. Sumner does not like the President on account of the San Domingo question. I tell you, that before four years are over San Domingo will belong to us, and Cuba too, if slavery is not abolished there. [Cheers.] There never has been a man so much maligned as Gen. Grant within the last few months; before that he was all right enough. I tell you when we elect him in November and elect our State ticket, then the bi ody Democrats which they would keep wide open will be closed, but not till then. [Loud cheering.]

William H. Johnson, Chairman of the colored State Central Committee, followed with some remarks on the political history of Horace Greeley, who, he maintained, never was an abolitionist, and never had a charitable sentiment. The latter he characterized as his "departed friend." A short address by George Francis, of the Eighth Ward, brought the meeting to a close, which dispersed with three rousing cheers for the Republican candidates.

AN OPEN-AIR MEETING.

A meeting was organized outside, in front of the Republican Head-quarters, and stirring speeches were delivered to about a thousand persons who were unable to gain admission, by Col. Petois, Rev. J. D. Bagwell, of Plainfield, N. J., Mr. Fenelia, First Ward, and others.

THE TURF.

Trotting at Prospect Park—General Notes.

There were two trotting contests at the Prospect Park Fair Grounds yesterday, and, notwithstanding the intense heat, there was a very fine attendance. The first race was a sweepstakes for $150, mile heats, best three in five, between M. Rogers' b. g. Abe, in harness; owner's b. m. Ida Fulton, also in harness, and G. Wright's br. g. Dan Bryant, to wagon. After a close contest of four heats it was won by Ida Fulton. The second event was a match for $200, mile heats, best three in five, to wagon, between M. Rogers' b. m. Belle of Vermont, and D. Dunley's gr. g. Telegraph, which the latter won in four heats. Telegraph came in first on the third heat, but was set back for running, and the heat given to Belle of Vermont. According to rule in such cases, the time was no record, and was not given.

NOTES.

Thursday will be a great day at Long Branch. With its accustomed liberality the Monmouth Park Association has offered the large sum of $4,000 for a race of four-mile heats and a handicap steeple-chase of three miles. The four-mile heats has six or seven entries, and among them M. H. Sanford's b. c. Monarchist, 4 years, by Lexington, out of Mildred, by imp. Glencoe; John Coffee's blk. f. Morlaachi, 4 years, by Lexington, out of Banner, by imp. Albion; D. J. Bannatyne's ch. h. Milesian, 5 years, by imp. Mickey Free, dam by Wagner; John Morrissey's ch. h. Defender, 5 years, by John Morgan, out of Cynconia, by imp. Herald; A. C. Franklin's b. f. Arizona, 4 years, by Lexington, out of imp. Zone, by the Cure; Bacon & Holland's br. h. Frank Hampton, 5 years, by imp. Leamington, dam by Charles Backus; and Geo. Flora McIvor and Cadence. These entries cannot fail to make a stirring contest, and they will doubtless prove that there are some good four-mile horses in the country, although many are laboring under the delusion that they have passed away with the popularity of long races. Mile heat races have always been the favorites in the West and South. The race has caused considerable interest in turf circles, and it is the all-absorbing topic of conversation at the hotels and public resorts. The steeple-chase has the following eleven: Sorrel Dan, Lochiel, Vesuvius, Tammany, Astroomer, Flora McIvor, McGregor, (formerly Dennis Burns,) Lochinvar, Blind Tom, Lobelia and Gao. This is an array of "talent" that will create much excitement, especially among the ladies. The programme will be found in another column.

The stakes of the Monmouth Park Association for 1874 have closed with numerous entries. The Jersey Derby Stakes for three-year olds has fifty nominations; the Monmouth Oaks for three-year old fillies has thirty-six; the Continental Hotel Stakes for three-year olds also has thirty-six; the Mansion House Stakes for four-year olds has twenty-six; the West End Hotel Stakes, a renewal of the Monmouth Oaks for three-year old fillies, has twenty-six, and the Robbins Stake for three-year olds has thirty-one.

The Prospect Park Fair Ground Association will give two meetings this Fall, the first beginning on the 17th of next month; until then the Association intends giving purses every Tuesday and Thursday, and the first of the series are advertised for the 3d of September.

Uncle John Harper, before leaving Long Branch for his home in Kentucky, wrote a letter to some friends in this City in which he says that his horses always understood him and he knew just what they asked for. He then goes on to say that "Longfellow will not race again. * * * But not only was he the best and gamest race-horse that I ever owned, but in my judgment the best race-horse that this or any other country has known. Had he remained sound to the end of the race at Saratoga, he would have made time never dreamed of, and I not only believe, but I feel quite certain that, fit and well, he could have run four miles without whip or spur in 7:12."

The Long Branch Race Entries.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Aug. 26.—The entries for the race at Monmouth Park on Tuesday next are closed. The following are the nominations:

For the four-mile heat race, Blind Tom, Gao, Gerald, Defender, Arizona, Milesian, Flora McIvor, Cadence, Frank Hampton.

BASE-BALL.

Another Mutual Defeat—The "Green Stockings" Vanquished by the Baltimores—Score 10 to 7.

Yesterday, for the fourth time this season, the Mutuals were conquered by the Baltimores, and, as on more than one previous occasion, less by the good play of their opponents than by their own careless fielding and base-running. The Baltimores began with a good streak of batting, four safe hits being made in the first inning, but thereafter Cumming' delivery became more effective, and most of the runs were scored on errors. At the commencement of the fifth inning the score was 3 to 0 in favor of the Baltimores, but here the New-Yorkers braced with effect, four runs being put together, which with another in the sixth, evened the figures. Three runs, two earned, were recorded for the visitors in their seventh inning, and in the eighth, another of the Mutuals reached the home plate, Hicks losing an easy chance at scoring. This decided the game, as the Mutuals added but one run in their ninth, on which the Baltimores secured two more, thus bringing their totals to ten, and winning, with three runs to spare. The general display of both nines was anything but satisfactory to the crowd, the fielding of Hatfield and Start, of the Mutuals, being especially bad. The Baltimores, although by no means perfect, played somewhat better, York and Higman taking the lead.

Arrest of a London Merchant—An Alleged Defaulter.

Some days ago a telegram was received in this City, by a lawyer named Olden, from London, England, requesting the arrest of Wm. Tucker, alias H. S. Langley, alias William Bond, a defaulting merchant of the latter city, who had succeeded in carrying to New-York $25,000 worth of goods, the property of his creditors. In the telegram it was stated that Tucker had failed in London on the 1st inst., and was duly declared, on petition of his creditors, to be a bankrupt. Mr. William Lewis Clifton Browne was appointed Trustee in Bankruptcy. The cable communication also made known the fact that on the 5th of August Tucker secured fifty-two packages of wine, whisky, &c., of the value of $25,000, and shipped the same to New-York under the name of H. S. Langley. On receipt of the telegram Mr. Olden embodied the above facts in an affidavit and submitted it to Judge Loew, of the Court of Common Pleas. Mr. Olden also stated to Judge Loew that Tucker, alias Langley, since his arrival in New-York had endeavored to secure an office for the purpose of disposing of the packages thus fraudulently obtained. A writ of arrest was issued and placed in the hands of Deputy Sheriff Martin Keese. That official executed the order yesterday. Mr. Tucker, when arrested, was mightily surprised, and expressed his indignation in no measured terms. He states that the whole proceeding is a mistake arising from a misconception on the other side of the Atlantic. The mistake to explain in the following manner: He admits having failed, but claims that he did so legitimately in the ordinary course of business; that he was before the Bankruptcy Court three times, paid $1,500 to his creditors and was duly discharged. He also paid another $1,500 that he owed. The goods he claims are his property, and not the property of his creditors. As to going by the name of Langley, he denies ever having done so. A man named H. S. Langley, however, a relative of his, brought out the goods in the steam-ship Helvetia. With regard to going by the name of Bond in New-York, he claims that his full name is William Tucker Bond. The statement of Mr. Bond relative to the goods coming out by the Helvetia in charge of a man named H. S. Langley, Deputy Sheriff Keese has found to be perfectly correct. The prisoner asserts that his reason for coming to this country was that he might have a new start in business without the odium of a failure attaching to his name. Mr. Bond's story is not without a certain plausibility, and it may be true. While waiting fresh advices from England the prisoner will remain in the custody of the Sheriff, unless he can furnish $25,000 bail.

The Coming Jail Delivery.

The morning papers lately have been filled with reports of various crimes committed in this City during the heated term, when the Court of General Sessions was not sitting. Next Monday, the Grand Jury will be impaneled for the Court of General Sessions, and this week the chief clerk of the District-Attorney's office will be hard at work drawing indictments. The number of cases to be tried is extraordinarily large, and the prison is full of persons awaiting a hearing. Nearly forty homicides are included in the ominous lot, which threatens to be the largest ever made out. Between 500 and 700 indictments, already approved by the Grand Jury, are in the pigeon-holes of the District-Attorney's safe, awaiting a resurrection during the coming Winter.

To clear the track of this monstrous incubus of criminal matter there will be two Courts of General Sessions, one of which will be presided over by Recorder Hackett, and the other by Judge Bedford. The authorities hope by these means to get rid of the mammoth responsibility under which they are now staggering. The charge to the Grand Jury will probably be delivered by Recorder Hackett.

Eleventh General Fenian Convention.

The Fenian Brotherhood held its Eleventh Annual Convention at Military Hall, No. 193 Bowery, New-York City, during the past week. Its sessions were commenced on Tuesday and its labors were concluded at a late hour on Saturday night. A scrutiny was had of the reports of the Committees on Finance, Military Affairs and Home Organization.

The greater part of Friday, and all of Saturday was devoted to the reception of the report of the Committee on the present condition and future prospects of the Fenian Brotherhood, and to the adoption of measures for its future direction and development.

During the session of Saturday, a committee was appointed for nominating the governing body of the Fenian Brotherhood for the coming year. The committee presented the names of gentlemen for officers, and they were unanimously elected.

The name of Col. John O'Mahony, of New-York, the original Head Centre of the Brotherhood, was presented for Chief Secretary, and he was elected by acclamation by his old fellow-workers amid a scene of intense enthusiasm.

Another Paris-Green Suicide.

On Sunday night Charles H. George, of No. 421 Fifth-street, on returning home found his mother, Mrs. Regina George, a German woman, fifty-two years of age, sitting in her bedroom vomiting freely and in great distress. She said she had a burning sensation in her throat and stomach and wanted some soda water. It was procured for her, but it did not appear to relieve her. The woman became worse, and finally medical aid was sent for, but before the arrival of a doctor she died. It was then ascertained that Mrs. George had taken Paris green. Domestic trouble is said to have been the cause of the suicide.

THE FIFTEENTH PICNIC.

An Immense Crowd of Juveniles on the Excursion.

Pleasant Trip Up the Hudson to Iona Island.

Popularity of the Picnics Increasing—Scenes and Incidents During the Day—The Fund Over $19,000.

The children's excursion yesterday proved to be the most successful one of the series, as the number participating was the largest yet recorded, many being left behind for want of room on the steamer. The picnics are now becoming very popular among the class they are intended to benefit, and the consequence is that the number of applicants increase with each successive excursion. The great heat which has prevailed during the past few days has also added to the success of these picnics, for the poor children now eagerly seek to escape from the City to enjoy a holiday and a breath of pure, fresh air. There were 1,662 children on the excursion yesterday, which, with the mothers and guardians, carried the total number of persons on board the steamer up to 1,878. The day was a delightful one, and there were no accidents to mar the occasion, every possible precaution having been taken to avoid them.

The Fourteenth Excursion.

The excursion yesterday, given in honor of St. John's Guild, through whose exertions so many poor families on the west side of the City have been visited and assisted from the TIMES Relief Fund, was the most successful of the series, the members of the Guild doing their best to make it as complete as possible. The children were told to assemble at the foot of Spring-street at 8 o'clock, but many of them reached the pier before 7, and long before the hour named nearly 2,000 children, besides a large number of adults, had collected at the starting point. As it was impossible to accommodate all, the Manager was compelled to make a selection of the juveniles, and to allow no adults on board but those who had very young children. At least 500 persons were sent back. Even with this selection there were 1,662 children and 164 mothers with infants, all of whom were under the care of sixty-three members of St. John's Guild, who greatly assisted the TIMES staff throughout the day. These, with the band, crew, assistants and Police, made a party of over 2,000 persons. Embarkation was very difficult, owing to the anxiety of every grown person to get on board, and the impossibility of making the vessel hold them all. To select the children while this confusion lasted was a matter of serious difficulty. "Do, Sir, let me go," said an anxious mother; "my children are all on board." "I do so want to go," said another, "as this is the last picnic by water." "I must go if the children do," emphatically asserted a third, and so on through the whole crowd of disappointed ones. It seemed almost in vain to tell the mothers that there was no more room on the boat. "We do not want to sink the whole party," said the Manager, "and the boat is full enough. Your children can go, but there is no more room for adults." Some mothers had confidence enough to allow their little ones—large enough to take care of themselves—to go alone with the party, but some took their children home because they could not go themselves.

Shortly after 9 o'clock the signal was given to start, and the steamer Wyoming, Capt. J. C. Tuttle, began to move up the river, the Governor's Island Band playing popular airs. It was a joyous party gathered on board the vessel. There were children of all ages, some of them colored, from the infant in arms to boys and girls of fifteen. Many of the children were lame from the loss of a limb, several were deformed, and two of them were blind. The attire of the boys was characteristic of the class from which they were taken. Several boys were barefooted and wore ragged clothes, but they seemed as happy as those better clad, and ran about the deck with an abandon that seemed devoid of care.

The trip by a steamer instead of barge was chosen in order to give the children an opportunity for a long sail up the Hudson River, and to treat them to a view of the lovely scenery which lines its banks. The place chosen for landing was at the grounds at Iona Island, kept by Messrs. Haasbrouck and Bushpell. It was reached at 1 o'clock in the afternoon. The trip was delightful, a gentle breeze prevailing. During the trip to the Island the party was saluted by the whistles of the spike-driver off Bloomingdale, the discharge of artillery at Dudley's Grove, the waving of flags from the signal-men along the Hudson River Railroad, and by salutes from passing vessels, including a small steam-yacht near the Island.

The serving of the children's breakfast of sandwiches and milk, was a work of arduous labor, the difficulty of marshaling so large a crowd of little ones, including so many unruly boys, being very great. In this the TIMES staff was ably assisted by the Guild. Although the work was proceeded with as rapidly as possible, it took nearly an hour to distribute the food, each child receiving his or her sandwich and cup of milk, and passing to the upper deck to partake of the banquet. As the children went on shore they received each a paper of sandwiches and a package of candy. The process of debarkation occupied over half an hour.

While at the grove the children were entertained by music from the band, and that never-ending source of amusement, Punch and Judy. At the close of which performance the whistles summoned the children to return. They again went on board, each child was given a glass of lemonade, a sandwich, and a huge piece of sponge cake.

During the time the children were amusing themselves in the grove, the St. John's Guild, in order to lessen the expenses, gave the adults a dinner on board of the Wyoming. The caterer, which was prepared by the steward, Proctor, was conceded to be a success.

The excursionists left the grove about 4 o'clock, and during the trip home the band performed several operatic selections, as well as providing dance music. While returning the children had an opportunity of witnessing a handsome sunset, the brilliant rays of which lit up the western shores of the Hudson with richest hues.

Before the returning vessel reached Dudley's Grove, a yacht, painted white, out whose name could not be distinguished, fired a salute, which was promptly acknowledged. At Dudley's and Spring Hill Groves the proprietors waved the Stars and Stripes, while the visitors cheered with hats, handkerchiefs, &c. Several steamers also saluted with their whistles, among whom were distinguished the Albany night boats, the Alexis, Nimbus, of Hudson, and others.

The following persons assisted the TIMES staff during the excursion: Rev. W. H. Cooke, Rev. A. Wiswall, (Master of St. John's Guild,) Dr. Thoms, Dr. Chatman, Mr. and Mrs. Crossett, and the following members of the Guild: Misses M. Rollins, E. Bowers, Veldrau, Jones, J. Bowers, Bell, Field, S. Jones, Kennedy, L. De la Montaigne, Hill, Stark, Bonner, Richardson, Thurman, Wiebel, Buroy, McCormick, Wagner, the Misses Bennett, Wagner and Ackerman; Mesdames Van Winkle, Jackson, Leggett, Parvou, Jones, Andrews, McCormick, Kinmons, Chutkowski, Ferguson, and Wiebel; Messrs.
